New Summit Meeting Proposed By Mr. K

Would Follow U.S. Elections

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev told Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain today he would like to discuss disarmament, a nuclear test ban and the future of Germany—"the basic problems of our times"—at a summit meeting.

But, he added, such a meeting "can hardly be expected" before the U.S. elections in November. Then he went on, Tass reported:

"If the Soviet government does not meet with understanding later, and if obstacles to agreement on these questions will be put up, we shall conclude a peace treaty with the East German Democratic Republic."

Khrushchev accused Macmillan of taking a hostile stand toward Russia by backing what he termed the aggressive policies of the United States.

Khrushchev was answering a personal letter from Macmillan July 19, in which the British leader warned that Soviet foreign policy appeared to have taken a dangerous new turn.

Khrushchev said Britain, by "covering up" for the United States, has assumed a position that is "hostile to us, directed against us."

Macmillan's letter had criticized the Russians for shooting down the American RB-47 July 1—making clear he accepted the U.S. version that the plane was over international waters when attacked.

Khrushchev said in his letter the flight of the RB-47 was carried out "not only for our territory but was agreed to by the British government."

U.S. comment on the Khrushchev proposal came today from two Democrats.

John F. Kennedy, presidential candidate, said: "The President of the United States conducts foreign policy and the comment should come from him." But he added: "Our experience in May did not give us much encouragement."

Former Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson said: "Let us hear what Khrushchev wants to discuss before we close our avenues to a safer world through peace by negotiation."

No comment was available from U.S. Republican or government sources.

2 Teen-Agers Slain; Police Question Man

BRUCE MINES, Ont. (CP)—Two teen-agers were fatally shot Thursday night—and a provincial police manhunt today held a 25-year-old former mental patient wanted for questioning in the slayings.

Jacqueline Dumont, 16, and William Brechin, Jr., 19, were found 10 miles apart on district roads near this community, 40 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie.

The captured man, a hired laborer on a local farm, was stopped at a road block north of Desbarres, about 25 miles east of the Soo, with a rifle under his arm. No charges have yet been laid.

Neighbors said Brechin and Miss Dumont had been going together during the last year. Miss Dumont lived opposite the man captured by police and they were also friendly.

Ex-Royal Butler Wouldn't Sign Oath

LONDON (Reuters)—The former butler of newlywed Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones was quoted today as saying he was asked to sign a statement under the Official Secrets Act before he left the couple's employ.

Thomas Cronin said in an interview with the Daily Express he decided to leave his job at Kensington Palace this week because: "My face didn't fit, that's all there is to it."

The silver-haired Cronin said on the day he left he was asked to sign a declaration under the Official Secrets Act.

"They were concerned in case I should talk about what I heard and saw during my 25 days."

'CUBA GROWLING' SAYS FORMER AIDE

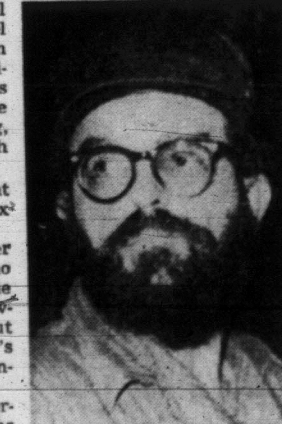

'Give Castro Six Months'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Raul Chibas, one of Premier Fidel Castro's top aides in the Cuban revolution who fled to political exile in the United States this week, says a resistance movement in Cuba is growing, but it is not yet strong enough to be feared by Castro.

He predicted, however, that Castro "won't last six months."

Chibas, Castro's treasurer during the revolution and who helped condemn foes of the revolution in the 1959 "showcase" trials, said he fell out with Castro over the premier's "obvious move toward communism."

He said in a Herald interview Thursday: "Two months ago I was asked to resign as president of the Western Railroad Company because I had expressed dissatisfaction with

SECURITY COUNCIL TO MEET

UN Postpones Intervention In Katanga

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (Reuters)—United Nations intervention in the Katanga has been postponed pending a meeting of the Security Council. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld called the meeting for Sunday night.

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (UPI)—Premier Moise Tshombe ordered all airfields in Katanga closed at midnight (6 p.m., PDT) tonight to prevent United Nations troops from being flown into the province.

The move came as UN under-secretary Dr. Ralph J. Bunche suddenly broke off talks with Tshombe here and returned by plane to Leopoldville for urgent new discussions on the increasingly explosive Katanga crisis with UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjöld.

The question still unanswered as the minutes ticked away toward zero hour on Saturday was whether Hammarskjöld would go ahead with his plans to send UN troops into this province which has declared its independence from the rest of the new Republic of Congo.

NO SIGN OF PEACE

If Hammarskjöld decides to press ahead, the UN forces probably will have to shoot their way in, since Tshombe and his government showed no sign of letting them in peacefully.

Heavily-armed military police of the Congolese army, loyal to Tshombe, sped out to Elisabethville airport in trucks to take up positions along the runways. The soldiers lined up their trucks beside the landing strips, ready to drive them into position to block any planes attempting to land. The trucks were loaded with oil barrels which were to be placed on the runways as additional barriers.

The only possible airport in Katanga which the UN could use is the one at the Belgian military base at Kamina. But it was unlikely the UN would ask the Belgians for permission to use it, and less likely that the Belgians would want to get mixed up in such a UN move.

BUNCHE ACTS FAST

Just before he left, he averted a potentially serious incident at the Elisabethville airport. Leaders of this "independent" province of the Congo ordered a detachment of empty trucks out to the runways to block the landing of a UN plane from Leopoldville.

Tshombe and those who back him feared the approaching plane was carrying an advance detachment of UN troops.

Bunche dashed to the control tower, grabbed a microphone and ascertained that the plane carried only civilian technicians. When he explained this to airport authorities, they allowed the plane to land.

But the civilians were not allowed to leave the plane. They stayed until the plane returned to Leopoldville with Bunche.

'TAX-FREE' IDEA STOLEN?

Liberal School Plan Questioned

By FRANK RUTTER

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault's "tax-free" school financing plan sparked some skepticism today as to how he could raise the money now paid by municipal taxpayers.

Mr. Perrault was also accused of "lifting" a plank from the CCF program.

School costs to municipal taxpayers in 1958-59, last reported figures by the education department, were $45,127,873.

The province kicked in $43,216,662 towards the total bill of $91,279,662.

In 1959-60 and 1960-61, the government boasts in its newest financial review, education aid will total 50 per cent of costs.

Mr. Perrault would have to pick up the $45,000,000 tab somehow if he were to implement his plan to free municipal property owners from school taxes.

We'll Have Hockey, Agreement Reached

JAMES PIGGOTT ... to operate team

Victoria is assured of professional hockey for at least another season.

Jim Piggott, owner of Victoria Cougars, and city officials today reached an agreement on operating the club for the 1960-61 Western Hockey League season thus ending a long period of uncertainty about the club's future.

It took only a short time to iron out differences still remaining in negotiations between Piggott and the Memorial Arena Commission during a noon meeting at the arena.

Piggott, who arrived from Saskatoon this morning and planned to leave this afternoon, said he was pleased with the success of negotiations and repeated his promise to furnish Victoria with nothing worse than a third-place team.

Commission members also stated the agreement had been concluded "to the satisfaction of everyone concerned," although there were still a few legal details to be worked out.

Attending the meeting with Mr. Piggott were: Mayor Percy Scurrell, city manager Cecil Wyatt, Forrest L. Shaw, commission members George L. Warren, Frank Mulliner, Courtney Haddock, William Osborne and city engineer James Garnett.

In the past few days, the agreement which Piggott wished to obtain with the arena commission has become considerably clearer and it would not, as has been suggested, put the city "in the hockey business."

When the commission indicated last Friday that it would reject his proposal, the Saskatoon contractor, who purchased the founding Victoria franchise and lost about $3,000 in operating the club last season, stated that he was prepared to drop plans to operate the Cougars for another year unless his terms were met.

He said his proposal was that he would provide the players at his expense and the commission would provide the arena, administration and players' salaries "up to the point where I broke even. Then the first charge would be for rental of the arena."

Asked by the commission to modify the proposal, Piggott said: "I have no plans for modification."

This indicated that he was asking the commission to assume responsibility for losses in the event that gate receipts did not equal operational costs and it seemed certain the commission would reject the proposal.

The picture became somewhat clearer after a commission meeting Monday, at which the plan was agreed to in principle. The commission asked for some changes, especially in regards to control of players and salaries, and the

15th Anniversary Of Atom Bomb Drop

By C. YATES McDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fifteen years ago tonight an explosion destroyed a city, signalled the end of a global war and spawned a lethal fear that still clouds the future of mankind.

In the new Japanese city of Hiroshima people of all faiths will pause for a minute of silent prayer at 5:15 p.m. PDT tonight—Saturday morning, Aug. 6, Japanese time—in memory of some 70,000 who were killed outright and many others who were injured in the explosion of the first atomic bomb.

Elsewhere in the world the anniversary may pass virtually unnoticed. But it will be remembered by the 10 surviving American servicemen on board the B-29 "Enola Gay."

They delivered the payoff of a Second World War program that cost the United States $2,000,000,000. Since then, many times that amount has been spent in making vastly more lethal nuclear weapons or in seeking to devise means to counteract them.

Only three men aboard the bomber that ushered in the military atomic age are still on active duty. The pilot, now Brig. Gen. Paul W. Tibbets Jr., commands the Strategic Air

NIXON PLEDGES AID TO FREE COUNTRIES

HONOLULU (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, viewing the next United States presidential election as a personal chief of American foreign policy, declared today that the U.S. will always lend its strength to the free countries of the world.

Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee for the November U.S. election, closed a two-day campaign whirl of Hawaii with a speech setting forth these aims for U.S. diplomacy:

1. To build military power not only equal to that of any potential enemy, but greater.
2. In dealing with other governments to "be firm without being belligerent."
3. To strive constantly for programs to reduce international tensions—but always from a position of strength.

U.S. SUB ARRIVAL SPARKS NEW JAPAN UNREST

Treaty Will be Election Issue

TOKYO (Reuters) — The opposition Socialist party said today it will make an election campaign issue out of the presence in Japanese bases of United States naval vessels which can carry nuclear weapons. The elections are due next November.

The party made its decision after the arrival at Yokosuka Naval Base, near the entrance to Tokyo Bay, of the U.S. submarine Grayback—a guided-missile craft for launching Regulus surface-to-surface weapons. Regulus is capable of using conventional or nuclear warheads.

But American officials have said nuclear weapons are not brought into Japan where the U.S. maintains bases under the new U.S.-Japanese security treaty.

The Socialist party Thursday said it would go to the electorate determined to disavow the security treaty, to recognize Communist China and advocate neutralism for Japan.

A foreign ministry spokesman said the ministry was told by the U.S. embassy here that Grayback was not equipped with nuclear weapons.

Pearkes Gets Head Start In Liberal Criticism

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA — Defence Minister Pearkes Thursday defused a new Liberal defence policy before the Liberals could denote it.

His chance came when the Ottawa Citizen appeared with an account of a Commons speech by Paul Hellyer, Liberal defence critic, two hours before Mr. Hellyer had delivered it.

Mr. Pearkes had the news paper on his desk and was able to reply to nearly all of Mr. Hellyer's major points before the Liberal MP for Toronto Trinity was able to utter a word.

Mr. Hellyer distributed advance copies of his speech Wednesday night on the understanding it would be released after he had spoken. He said he was sure publication before delivery was an accident.

Valiantly, Mr. Hellyer made his speech as he had written it although Mr. Pearkes had already heavily criticized it.

Mr. Hellyer proposed scrapping the Bomarc, thus obviating the need for storing nuclear warheads on Canadian soil.

He also advocated cancellation of the CF-104 jet plane in favor of a different ground-support aircraft for the RCAF air division in Europe and replacement of six destroyers under construction with troop carriers.

Mr. Pearkes said "this is a program of scrap, scrap, scrap" and suggested that Mr. Hellyer scrap his speech before giving it.

Mr. Pearkes said he sympathized with Mr. Hellyer, who was a victim of an "irresponsible and unscrupulous newspaper reporter" and of "scandalous" use by the press of the advance copy of the speech.

Warheads 'Depend on Circumstances'

The minister said that if the Liberals were prepared to sacrifice a means to destroy hostile nuclear bombers over Canada they could decide such a policy throughout the country.

But Mr. Pearkes himself did not say that Canadian forces will get nuclear warheads. The decision on this "depends on circumstances which might develop some time in the future."

He said the Bomarc CF-104 and Honest John artillery rocket, to come into service late next year, can be armed with nuclear warheads.

To refuse or to neglect to have these warheads available when required would place an intolerable handicap on Canadian defences, he said. A declaration that Canada would never use nuclear warheads would bring "great comfort" to an enemy.

Mr. Hellyer accused the government of "spending the money first and making the decision afterward."

The government had committed Canadian taxpayers to expenditures of $120,000,000 on the Bomarc system before it had made up its mind whether to allow atomic warheads for the missile on Canadian soil.

The government was spending $420,000,000 on the CF-104 without having made any arrangements with France for storage of nuclear warheads for the plane on French bases.

Mr. Hellyer said Mr. Pearkes had tried to leave the impression that Canada would be placed in jeopardy by not having Bomarc and nuclear warheads for them.

Nothing could be farther from the truth, The Bomarc was an added liability. It would be one of the few priority targets in Canada and put in jeopardy people living near the Bomarc bases at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que.

Bomarc 'Total Waste' Winch Charges

Harold Winch, CCF military spokesman, said the Bomarc is a "total waste of money from beginning to end."

"There is no defence against thermonuclear weapons and a war fought with such weapons would be suicidal. It therefore follows that 11 defensive preparations for such a war are a waste of time, energy and money..."

Mr. Winch suggested that Canada be a "buffer" to prevent surprise attack by Russia or the United States on each other. The DEW-radar line should be internationalized.

The legislative crush in parliament began to ease, aided by Senate acquiescence to the Commons' apparent drive for week-end prorogation.

The Liberal majority in the Upper House held the upper hand in a crucial day of debate. It could have wrecked one major piece of Conservative government legislation and seriously delayed another. But it did neither.

It wrote a finish to the political wrangling over the government's anti-combines amendments when the Liberal majority allowed the measure to pass. The amending bill had been before the Commons three months. It cleared the Senate in three days.

Meanwhile, the Commons be-

UNION REBEL GETS JOB DOING NOTHING FOR PAY

SWINDON, England (AP)—Paul Andrews got a paid job Thursday doing nothing.

Andrews, 27-year-old railway coach painter, recently had a row with his union and quit paying dues. So 500 fellow workmen went on strike.

To avoid any more trouble, his foreman told Andrews this morning:

"Keep coming to work, but don't do any. The management has no complaint against you, so you will still get your wages. Just punch the time clock when you arrive and let me know where you are."

For his job of doing nothing, Andrews will receive about £13 a week.

WOODS HAZARD STILL SERIOUS ON COAST

Nature Aids Firefighters

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—Firefighters let nature take over their long battle against forest fires in central British Columbia Thursday.

For the fifth straight day thunderstorms scattered showers of rain over the 51,500-square-mile Kamloops forest district, giving firefighters and the pilots of water-bombing aircraft another easy day.

The favorable weather conditions—including up to half an inch of rain in some areas—reduced the total number of fires in the district to 230, a drop of 28 in one day.

Restrictions on campfire permits, lifted in the neighboring Nelson district Thursday, were expected to be removed here today.

However, the fire hazard continued to cause alarm in the Vancouver and Prince George forest districts.

The hazard remained extreme in the coastal region, where six new fires were added Thursday to the 23 already burning.

He Keeps You Uninformed

CONSTITUTIONALLY PREMIER Bennett has the right to call an election whenever he chooses. But morally he has no right to ask for another mandate until he tells the people what he intends to do about major business.

In the brief space between now and polling day—when there will be no time for adequate public debate—will Mr. Bennett tell us what he intends to do about the Wenner-Gren promotion; about the mysterious northern railway which must certainly involve the people's domain if it is ever built; about his plans for vast borrowings which, he says, create no debt; about the future of the municipalities that remain in desperate straits while his Government boasts of huge revenue surpluses; about his policy on medical insurance?

Up to the present Mr. Bennett has rarely spent a day in silence but he has not answered any of these questions. The Government which guarantees to keep the people informed has informed them about none of their larger affairs.

Does Mr. Bennett propose to go through the election campaign merely repeating that his Government gets things done without telling them what things it actually plans to do? Is the electorate asked to buy a pig in a poke?

Mr. Bennett may believe that he does not have to answer any of these questions, that he can win the election with his tightly-knit organization, his unlimited campaign funds, the support of big business and, above all, the division of his opponents in three separate groups.

These are surely great assets for any government. The Social Credit Party can win a large majority in the Legislature with a small minority of the popular vote, provided it is divided more or less evenly by the Opposition parties.

This has always been Mr. Bennett's strategy since his first days of office when he immediately abolished the transferable voting system and made sure that a divided public opinion could not be mobilized against his Government. So far the strategy has worked very well for him and may work again next month.

But recent events in Quebec and New Brunswick must disturb even an optimist like the Premier. In those provinces few observers detected a deep undercurrent of opposition to governments apparently impregnable. Such a tide may be running in British Columbia.

At any rate, there is little doubt that a majority of British Columbians will vote against the Government. The practical question is how their votes will be distributed between the CCF, the Liberals and the Conservatives.

Now that a breakneck election campaign is under way, the policies of the opposition parties no doubt will soon be clarified and perhaps Mr. Bennett will reveal his policies also.

In the meantime we suspect that in many constituencies the local voters who are opposed to the Government will pay little attention to party lines and old loyalties but will quietly unite behind some candidate who, whatever his label, seems best able to represent them in the Legislature. The character of the candidate probably will count for more now than in most former elections.

Happily some excellent men are offering their services to the people in the belief that British Columbia should not commit itself to four more years of government by reckless spending, gigantic debt, high taxes, slick salesmanship and systematic secrecy.

Such men should be supported if a majority of the people, as we believe, are tired of a Government which, masquerading as a people's movement, has become the most costly political machine in Canada.

Kennedy and Canada

THE CANADIAN NEWSPAPER correspondents in Washington are speculating on Senator Kennedy's prospective policies toward Canada if he became president. Since he has at least a fifty-fifty chance of election, his attitude to Canadian affairs is of first-rate importance. But it is far from clear.

The record of his speeches and his votes in the Senate seems to indicate that generally Senator Kennedy takes much the same attitude as the Canadian Government toward foreign policy in a world-wide sense. In matters touching Canada, especially in the problems of trade within North America, his views are more ambiguous.

He has voted to maintain the reciprocal trade agreements legislation, first passed under the Roosevelt Administration, by which the American tariff has been greatly reduced from time to time. On the other hand, he has also voted to maintain all those escape clauses permitting the Government to raise tariff rates, or otherwise restrict imports if it thinks that any American industry is imperiled by foreign competition.

Also, as a New Englander, Senator Kennedy probably would be more concerned than President Eisenhower has been with imports of fish from the Canadian Atlantic coast. Mr. Eisenhower has vetoed all attempts to restrict these imports which compete with the New England fishing industry. Senator Kennedy might take a different position.

Let's Not Count It a Loss

MR. HAMILTON, CANADA'S minister of northern affairs and natural resources, finds some satisfaction in the shrinking gap between what Canadians spend as tourists in the United States and what Americans spend as tourists in Canada.

The traffic deficit to Canada last year was $94 million against $104 million the year before.

The minister would be happier still if the gap were closing between what Europeans spend visiting Canada and what Canadians spend visiting Europe. Last year Europeans spent $42 millions, two millions more than in 1958. But Canadians, during the same period, increased their overseas tourist expenditures by $19 million to a total of $129 million.

Of course it would be a happier situation if more money were coming into this country through tourist channels.

At the same time, the Canadian expenditures can be assessed in terms other than those of loss to the country. If travel had its usual effects on our people visiting other nations, perhaps $129 million was relatively cheap for the education and understanding received.

Hume Is Where Etc.

ALMOST INVARIABLY, NEWS reports for this hemisphere add a parenthetical explanation to their first use of the name of Britain's new foreign secretary. They say

"Lord Home (pronounced Hume)." Which keeps us looking for the punch line of some North American political columnist saying: "I am going home (pronounced home)."

The Sands of Africa

GRIM LOOK AT LATIN AMERICA By MAX FREEDMAN

Caribbean Overcast

THE temporary and forced retirement from public life of Dr. Fidel Castro, on orders from his doctor, in no way changes the basic elements of the Cuban situation. The men who will now direct Cuban affairs are as friendly to the Castro tradition as they are hostile to the United States and other Western nations. The Cuban revolution is something more than the lengthened shadow of one man. The very tensions and anxieties which now burden the Cuban economy may drive its rulers to further excesses instead of teaching them the wisdom of restraint.

Max Freedman

In Washington there has been the usual outcry against Castro as an hysterical and unbalanced revolutionary leader who has never learned the difference between directing a guerrilla band in the hills and presiding over the destiny of a nation. It has been suggested that he should take a prolonged rest to regain his mental health. Beneath these sarcastic comments, however, there is an undercurrent of anxiety, for the State Department knows that the eclipse of Castro's popularity has been much greater in the United States than in many countries of Latin America where he is still regarded as a popular hero unfairly harassed by outside pressures.

Direct Antagonism

The State Department, which has shunned any open clash with Castro for many turbulent months after he overthrew the Batista dictatorship, has now adopted the policy of direct antagonism to the Cuban Government. Every false statement about American policy is at once refuted, and every charge of American imperialism is angrily rejected. Castro acted with shrewd duplicity when he confiscated British and American oil interests for he knows, particularly after Suez, that no Western nation will again use force merely to protect its aggrieved commercial interests.

There must be a challenge to human rights and some clear threat to a genuine strategic interest before the United States can think of harsh reprisals. And a policy of reprisal or intervention will only be taken in agreement with the Organization of American States. The real question of policy is what kind of lead, if any, should the State Department give to that organization.

No Agreement

On this issue there is no agreement between the two parties. The Democrats at their national convention were troubled by the Castro problem without being able to go beyond rather angry

There was a great deal of talk about the good neighbor policy of Roosevelt and they added that the present unrest would never have arisen if the Democrats had been in power in Washington and had been able to keep contact with the insurgent forces of Cuban democracy. These points may be valid but they are irrelevant. Senator Kennedy well knows that he may be confronted before November with the urgent test of invention. He does not know as yet what his answer will be.

The Republicans were equally divided. Governor Rockefeller saw the Cuban situation as the final proof of the shift of military power to the Soviet Union. On no other grounds could he explain Mr. Khrushchev's threats. Mr. Eisenhower discussed Cuba as if it were only another troubled area vexed by Communist intrigue.

Strange Argument

Mr. Nixon, in replying to Mr. Khrushchev's taunt that the Monroe Doctrine is dead, claimed that the Monroe Doctrine is valid everywhere. This really is a strange argument for the Monroe Doctrine has no validity outside this hemisphere. It is in this hemisphere alone that the United States has announced to the whole world that it will be judge of its own actions in protecting other nations from European or Asian encroachments.

The Monroe Doctrine has never been given any formal status in world law. It has been tolerated and respected by other nations because of American power and the general recognition that it is to everyone's advantage to keep Latin America from becoming the theatre of competing national rivalries.

Now that tradition of tolerance has been challenged by Russia. Hence the sombre significance of the Cuban problem.

Right of Self-Defence

It should be understood that the United States can take various actions without reliance on the Monroe Doctrine. It still has the inherent right of self-defence, as sanctioned by the United Nations charter, and it can seek the approval of other Latin American countries in common measures designed to stop Communist penetration in this hemisphere.

But Cuba is not the only problem worrying the State Department. There is concern also about Russia's intentions in the Panama Canal. The cutting of the Isthmus of Panama by a canal was described by James Bryce as "the greatest liberty man has ever taken with nature." Then the United States deliberately created an American republic out of Panama and guaranteed the artificial state's independence. No American expert believes that there is serious discontent in the Canal Zone.

The violent threats heard periodically should be profoundly discounted. But it would be possible for some determined Communists agents, few in number, to stir up mischief on a large scale. For the United States as a matter of high policy has deliberately kept its armed force in the Canal Zone to a minimum. If it were to move additional troops into that area now, it might easily buy tranquility for the Canal Zone but only at the cost of exciting suspicion and derision throughout Latin America.

Confusions

Thus the United States at present does not know how to act resolutely in Cuba without reviving talk of American imperialism, and it is equally unable to act with prophetic foresight in the Panama Canal to prevent serious trouble from arising there. These confusions and uncertainties of American policy have not arisen on the rim of a distant continent. They are in the area where American supremacy has been acknowledged for decades. That is why the sullen clouds in Latin America are not only disturbing in themselves but may portend larger dangers.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"WHY DIDN'T YA ASK ME IF I WAS CHEWIN' BUBBLE GUM?"

Defence Without Suicide

By LEONARD BEATON

NO military writer of our day has more to say than Captain Liddell Hart. He is a realist with a sense of history who has the imagination to see what new weapons mean and what they do not mean. In spite of being right so often over four decades, he comes fresh and without loyalties to every problem. In his latest book, Deterrent or Defence (Stevens, 30s), he ranges over every subject from tactical atomic weapons to disarmament with great skill. It is obvious that solutions are no longer so obvious to him as they were between the wars; but this should be a consolation to those who are still searching among the current crop of facile proposals for a way out.

In trying to apply the scientific method to the study of warfare, he managed, he writes, to be fairly successful in predicting, after the First World War, the main military developments that governed the Second World War. "Yet I feel very dubious now in attempting any predictions about a Third World War, if war should break out—beyond the basic certainty that it would immediately produce chaos." Unlike many American military writers, he will have nothing of the notion that nuclear weapons are part of an inevitable progression in destructive methods. He believes in the deterrent and even has hopes that it will work. But he is convinced that NATO has drifted into an impossible situation by reorganizing its armies around nuclear weapons. He writes: "The value of armies is essentially that of providing a non-suicidal safeguard against attack. To arm them with atomic weapons is to weaken the case for maintaining them." Once doctrine and organization are established around a particular weapon an almost irresistible pressure is generated to use it. He warns against letting nuclear weapons get too far down in the military scale. They should be kept in special detachments "high up the sleeve." Military commanders cannot be left to decide, for in their immediate concern to save their troops they will use every weapon available. "By taking the narrow view they have often in the past marred the aims of higher policy. Now, they could wreck the world."

This is all part of the great problem, which he takes up, of educating the Foreign Office in military affairs and subjecting the soldiers to policy. Captain Liddell Hart knows too much about war to see it as a substitute for policy. To him, the Polish guarantee was provocation and temptation to Hitler, since it was militarily meaningless; Churchill's "blind aim" of the complete conquest of Germany was likewise bound to end in tragedy and futility.

His essays on creating amphibious flexibility for the forces (emphasising the sea rather than air), developing the use of gas (as more humane than other weapons and favoring the defender), the need for fluidity in the use of forces, and an end to the doctrine of destroying enemy forces all contribute to his overall effort to make any resort to armed conflict safer. He is perhaps too pessimistic about the prospects for disarmament; but he gives policy its clear-cut directive when he says that our practice should be clear enough to make mutual limitation without agreement likely. The book is not a coherent whole and includes articles in different moods in different periods. But the broad lines of his thought are always clear and almost always stimulating and beyond dispute.

'No Discrimination Is Allowed ...'

Letter To The Times (London)

THE one-mile event in the recent AAA Championships was won in record time by Lázlo Tabori, a Hungarian refugee. It was a performance that should put him among the favorites for a Gold Medal at the Olympic Games in Rome this year. It should, but it does not, because without a National Committee to submit his name, Tabori is debarred from competing.

Yet Rule 1 of the Charter of the Olympic Games includes the phrase "No discrimination is allowed against any country or person on grounds of color, religion, or politics."

This question of admitting stateless athletes has been put to the International Olympic Committee again and again in the past decade, but to no effect. Surely it should not be beyond the wit of these administrators to devise a formula by which athletes in this category are permitted to compete.

Simple justice apart, the admission of individual entrants might serve to check the increasingly chauvinistic atmosphere in which the modern Games are approached.

CHRISTOPHER CHATAWAY,

What Happens at Sundown?

I was greatly impressed by the patriotic adornment worn by Mrs. J. B. Morrison, and recently illustrated in your paper. May I enquire whether the flag is unspun and lowered at sundown, in keeping with the best British traditions?

Eaton and Coexistence

The interesting article in the Times on Cyrus Eaton's views on coexistence shows that it is not always the financiers and industrialists who are the warmongers. Today it is the zealous politicians and Christian religionists who had rather face the dangers of nuclear war than endure co-existence with communism.

Having been born in Canada, Cyrus Eaton can never be president of the U.S.A., but the tension between the communist and Western nations might be eased if, after the coming presidential election, he were appointed Secretary of State or ambassador to Russia or China, or offered some high post with the United Nations.

Terrible Sight

During a recent drive to Jordan River I noticed that the BCE Co. had sprayed the power line right of way, even to where it came down to the highway.

It is a terrible sight to see. Not only is it unsightly but it is dangerous, because the bushes and trees are dead and dry—an easy start for a fire. The spraying no doubt has killed off a large number of insects that are of use to mankind.

When the rains come there will be the run off of poison to the streams and fish will be killed as well.

A DISGUSTED RESIDENT

Worth Their Wages

I should like to express my heartfelt thanks and appreciation to the Saanich Fire Department.

On Sunday afternoon we had a grass and bush fire on our property; not a large fire as they go, but one which could very easily have wiped out our home and livelihood had it not been for the firemen.

Fortunately, it was reported early by a kind young motorist, and I was impressed by the quick response to my call and by the general over-all efficiency of the department. Even the Chief attended in civilian clothing to lend a helping hand.

I'll confess that along with a great many others, I protested, a short time ago, when the firemen received a wage increase, with the inevitable rise in taxes, but I am sorry now and publicly apologize for my feelings.

Although only six miles from the heart of town, we are still one and a quarter miles from the nearest fire hydrant; so it is indeed gratifying to know that we are protected by such a fine body of highly trained and skilled men.

To them again, many thanks!
CHARLES B. NEWMAN,

A Job for Canadians

Upon consideration of the situation that now prevails on the African continent, the only seemingly possible conclusion we can draw is "confusion par excellence." However, there is one major significance arising out of the clouds of dissension in the African Congo.

We Canadians have enjoyed for some time now the reputation abroad that Canadian intervention, particularly under the flag of the United Nations, is a guarantee of fair-minded and unbiased jurisdiction. This favorable reputation is vital to the degree of Canadian prestige in the many distant countries of the world. However, we at home live up to this honor with more effort than those who have been singled out to represent Canada as unofficial ambassadors while bringing peace to this troubled area. We must revitalize our efforts to ensure, regardless of race, creed, or color, that no man shall be deprived of his equality under God or the state.

Our nation, caught up in the turmoil of the modern world because of heritage and geographic location, must be prepared to offer the world a sanctuary for the basic human rights that provide the foundation for all civilizations. Also, as individual Canadians, we must take measures to ensure within ourselves that no parochial ideals such as apartheid, or race discrimination, could endanger the well deserved respect for Canada abroad.

Such indignations as the Congo, South Africa, and even more predominant, the southern United States, must never find root in Canada. We should heed the warning shown us in Africa, for if we do, out of the chaos and confusion will come a better Canada, a stronger United Nations, and most certainly, a safer world.

Who will govern, say, this Fall,
William, Robert, Ray or Deane—
Each of whom, we know, is keen;
Keen to govern, keen to face
All in all, the public grace?

Political Prose

CHICAGO (UPI)—I don't know if you have ever been addled by oratory, but I can tell you it's as bad as being stupefied by speeches.

Attending the conventions last month, I estimate that I absorbed at least 25 hours of political prose, which is about 15 hours over my saturation point.

This forensic fallout has reduced me to a quivering mass of ear-bet metaplasms, cringing before the spoken word. I lost all ability to distinguish between speeches. They all sound like this:

West

"Mr. chairman, delegates, alternates, distinguished guests, undistinguished guests, ushers, gate-crashers, members of the great unseen television audience, friends, fellow Americans and uncle Luther.

"We are gathered here tonight for a great and solemn occasion, and, yes, an occasion that is small and frivolous. We are here to nominate the next nominee of the United States! (Applause.)

"Our great party has before it a task of heavy responsibility, which is not to be taken lightly. The action we take here tonight shall determine, in large measure and to a considerable degree, the man who.

"Our great party has many men who. It is a party that spans the length and breadth of Nebraska to the sun-kissed shores of Oklahoma. (Applause by Nebraska and Oklahoma delegations.)

"It is a party that represents men and women and, yes, even little children, from all walks of life—not only from the walks, but from the runs, the gallops and the dog-trots of life. It is a party whose members range from the poorest sharecropper in Alabama to the richest sharecropper in Alabama. (Applause by Alabama delegation.)

"You have heard it said, and you will hear it said again, that what our party needs is not a man who, but a man whom. Do not be deceived by these false prophets! (Applause by true prophets.)

"Never before in the history of our great nation, or at least not in the last two weeks, has our great nation faced a time of such timeliness. So I say to you that there is only one man who is the right man who.

"That is the man who I have the honor and privilege of man whoing tonight.

"It makes me humbly proud and, yes, even proudly humble to present to you the man who has proved himself equal. I give to you—Clarence Manho! (Prolonged applause and demonstrations.)

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Nude All Fit to Squint

LONDON—at random... Britain's famed football pools have spread into other fields. The new stock market pools have just paid out their first dividends.

Similar to the football coupon's challenge of pick eight tied games out of 54, the stock market version requires the 10 shares from a list of 50 that will show the greatest percentage rise. Also forthcoming: weather pools, in which punters will have to forecast correctly each Saturday the mean temperatures in 10 or 60 places listed.

Interesting aspect of the so-called life sentence which murderers in Britain now get in all but the two capital offences, murder with theft and murder of a policeman... In the past five years 75 murderers jailed "for life" have been released, after serving prison terms ranging from as low as six months to 20 years. Average life sentence for these 75: around eight years.

If you find a mouse in your bottle of milk is it harmful? Not according to United Dairies, one of Britain's biggest. When they were fined $135 following a London woman's discovery of one in her morning delivery, their spokesman said: "No possible harm could come to a customer. Each bottle goes through a process that renders the bottle and anything inside it absolutely sterile."

London's notorious strip clubs, where the law can't stop club members from watching girls take their clothes off all afternoon and evening, have advanced—if that is the word—into what's called "the cinema strip."

New clubs have opened at which, for a membership fee, one may watch films of girls undressing. Star attraction at the moment is glamour-gal Sabrina. Unlike "blue" movie shows, which come under the heading of obscenity, the police as yet have no legislation to put a stop to these cinema strips.

You've heard those frequent tales of fabulous inventions which Big Business buys up to keep them off the market—things like women's stockings that will never wear out, a carburetor that will give a car several hundred miles to the gallon.

It's not true, according to John Duckworth, chief of the National Research Development Corporation. More than 500 new inventions land on his desk each year for examination and he says: "If great inventions have been suppressed by industry, they must have been so jolly well suppressed that we never hear of them."

Disappointment for Frank Berry, youthful Canadian comic who has been emcee of a teen-age "beat" show on TV called "Tempo 60." It has been scrapped half way through its scheduled run, as part of the policy of both BBC and Commercial TV to kill the teen-age rock 'n' roll programs and aim at wider audiences.

How much quicker is a distance runner than a walker? Twice, three times as fast? It has been put to the test over the 50 miles between London and Brighton. The runner's time: 5 hrs. 2 mins. The walker, 7 hrs. 35 mins.

Butterfly Bushes May 'Ely' Again

The buddleia, or Butterfly bush, is a popular summer flowering shrub, for its long cones of tightly packed, honey-scented blossoms make an attractive addition to the August garden. Apart from the usual lavender color, there are newer varieties such as Royal Red (which would be more aptly named Royal Purple) and White Bouquet.

Now that the central, and longest, cones of blossoms have faded into brown, they can be snipped off. At their base will be noticed smaller flower heads which will rapidly develop, and again the shrub will be covered with bloom.

No further pruning of the summer-flowering Buddleia is needed this year, but in March, according to when the weather seems on the mend, quite drastic cutting back is done to within a few inches of old wood. These buddleias flower on the new shoots produced in the spring.

For an eye-stopping and nose-catching combination, plant the lavender, purple and white buddleias with scarlet and soft pink floribunda roses. These roses are still flowering when the buddleias come, and the color scheme leaves little to be desired.

The roses and the buddleias need full sunshine, and a similar rather stiff soil suits them both. Bone-meal in spring and fall is their main diet, and a special feeding in June of a fertilizer (such as 6-8-6) will make them perform wonders. The same occasional deep soakings with water during summer can be applied to both, and the most ardent rose-grower could find little criticism in the happy association of these two plants.

PARIS (Reuters)—A small zoo arrived here by air Thursday as a gift from President Eisenhower to President de Gaulle and the French people. It included two black bears, eight antelopes, 61 reptiles—including alligators, tortoises, salamanders, frogs, toads and a rattlesnake—a porcupine, a puma, eight prairie dogs, and six assorted birds. The animals, promised when De Gaulle visited Eisenhower in the United States, will go to the Paris Zoo.

Closer Defence Tie With Canada

WASHINGTON (AP)—The defence department issued a new directive Thursday calling for maximum integration of Canadian and U.S. research, development and production to match the already intimate military co-operation between the two nations.

The document consolidates policy statements issued since the Second World War and expands them to achieve greater standardization of military equipment, wider dispersal of production facilities and removal of obstacles in the way of the closest defence industry integration.

It demand "equal consideration" to the business communities of both countries.

At Ottawa, officials welcomed the directive although it amounted to little more than a restatement of existing policy.

The United States had already removed restrictions of the Buy American Act on imports of Canadian defence equipment. The act had imposed a levy of 6 per cent on Canadian material.

Bond Mutual Fund Does Well

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

"Buy bonds and make money" has been the cry of investment dealers in recent months. It has been a sound cry. The stock market has been going nowhere. But bonds have been an investment of a different kind. Further support for this conviction appears in the semi-annual report of an unusual mutual fund.

This particular fund differs from other investment or mutual funds in that its portfolio consists solely of bonds. It differs from most mutual funds in another way—it has appreciated in value. Ordinary mutual funds containing an approximate 80-20 stocks-to-bonds portfolio have been ailing.

The bond fund reports its net assets, value in the first six months of 1960 rose 7.7 per cent to a new high level of $6.13 per unit.

Since the fund started in October, 1957, the unit value has jumped from $5 to $6.13, a gain of 22.6 per cent.

This record was established under one of the most difficult periods in the history of the market.

Anyone who has followed the dropping market indexes the past year will be aware that the bulk of mutual funds which are top-heavy with stocks have suffered unit losses ranging from $1.28 to $6.61.

The rise in bond prices can be placed primarily to the improvement in federal finances resulting from a decrease in the offerings of new government bond issues.

When the government is a big borrower the demand for money is high. So is the interest rate. When the interest rate falls off bond prices rise.

Will bonds be an attractive buy throughout 1960? "I think they will," a prominent investment dealer said Thursday.

His reason: interest rates will continue to decline slightly. The dealer had mixed feelings over the advisability of buying bonds through a fund.

As against buying them direct from a dealer.

He felt the 8 per cent fund loading charge was too high.

"Administering a bond portfolio doesn't require the attention a mixed stocks-bond portfolio needs," he said.

He agreed, on the other hand, that if a straight bond portfolio has convertible issues (where bonds can be converted into preferred or common stocks at a fixed option date) it probably is better for the average investor to have experienced management make the decision.

Few investment dealers can agree on mutual funds. Some say the loading charge is too high; others claim that the portfolio is so diversified substantial appreciation is certain to be slow because all segments of the market rarely move up simultaneously. Even if industrials soar, oils may flounder, balancing the unit price and leaving it more or less static.

Other dealers say investment funds serve a useful purpose for people who have less than $500 to invest since it offers an entrée into the market with the assurance of portfolio management by experts.

However you look at it, this particular bond fund passes inspection. Twenty-two persons' appreciation in three years is hardly displeasing. Ask the man who invested $10,000 in 1957. Today it's worth $12,260.

LAST BUT NOT LEAST Thursday's column about the trials, travails and anticipated success of Oakland Industries' fish cannery lacked mention of George Askey.

It shouldn't have. Few families have as much background in the fishing industry as the Askeys. He's put everything he has into the local venture. "Nobody," says co-partner Gordon Willis, "works harder than George. From March 3 he's been an 8 a.m. to midnight man."

CANADA'S BILL OF RIGHTS

OTTAWA (CP) — Following is a text of the principal sections of the Canadian bill of rights:

Preamble:

The Parliament of Canada, affirming that the Canadian nation is founded upon principles that acknowledge the supremacy of God, the dignity and worth of the human person and the position of the family in a society of free men and free institutions;

Affirming also that men and institutions remain free only when freedom is founded upon respect for moral and spiritual values and the rule of law;

And being desirous of enshrining these principles and the human rights and fundamental freedoms derived from them, in a bill of rights which shall reflect the respect of Parliament for its constitutional authority and which shall ensure the protection of these rights and freedoms in Canada:

Therefore Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, enacts as follows:

Part One

Bill of Rights:

1. It is hereby recognized and declared that in Canada there have existed and shall continue to exist without discrimination by reason of race, national origin, color, religion or sex, the following human rights and fundamental freedoms, namely:

(A) The right of the individual to life, liberty, security of the person and enjoyment of property, and the right not

'It Witnesses Our Belief In the Guidance of God'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons passed the bill of rights unanimously Thursday and Prime Minister Diefenbaker said it now is up to every Canadian to see that fundamental freedoms and human rights are never allowed to erode away.

In an emotional windup speech in the debate which began on July 1, Dominion Day, Mr. Diefenbaker said:

"I think what we have done has been right. I think it has been for the good of Canada. I think it witnesses our belief in the guidance of God, and realization that law, justice and morality can be put in words and perpetuated in statutes."

He congratulated members of the special Commons committee which studied the bill. They represented Italian, German, Chinese, Polish, Ukrainian and Arabic races as well as the Anglo-Saxon and French races which originally united to form Canada.

During the vote which gave the final stamp of approval of the Commons to the bill, the prime minister was given an 80-second round of desk-thumping applause. The vote was 188 to 0.

Part Three

3. Honesty Best Policy

TORONTO (CP) — Two boys aged 11 and 12, who disappeared Wednesday with a druggist's $500 bank deposit, suffered an attack of conscience Thursday and returned all but $30.

Izzie Gaynor, proprietor of Yale Drugs, said he hired the boys to run errands and after they proved their honesty by making a $10 collection, he sent them to the bank. When they failed to return, he called police.

When they started flashing their money, some of their friends warned them of the serious consequences of their actions, Mr. Gaynor said.

They had spent $10 and given $20 to friends.

SONNY LISTON

Ingemar Johansson, who are doing little of the fighting in the heavyweight division, but getting all the money.

When did the boxing business become so sanctimonious as to shy away from an honest journeyman warrior simply because it is suspected that a sinister figure in the person of Blinky Palermo is lurking in Liston's background? Hoodlums no doubt were involved in the fight game up to their dirty little ears in the days of Jim Figg. They most certainly have been since.

Go all the way back and you'll find only a handful of heavyweight champions whose management hasn't been under the jurisdiction of racketeers to some extent.

Boo Boo Hoff, a notorious Philadelphia alcohol baron, believed he had enough on Gene Tunney to sue for services rendered. If Jack Sharkey wasn't in cahoots with the mob, he certainly was not antagonistic toward some of its prominent members. James J. Braddock was staked by "the boys" before the Cinderella Man was shod with the glass slipper. John Roxborough and Julian Black, who steered Joe Louis to the title, were mixed up in the numbers game and goodness knows what else.

Felix Bocchicchio, who pulled the string on Jersey Joe Walcott, wasn't exactly lily white. Al Weill, the puppeteer for Rocky Marciano, was widely suspected of being too intimate with Frankie Carbo, the incarcerated underworld king of boxing, a circumstance which led to his being denied a promoter's licence.

In the sludge dredged up after the first Patterson-Johansson encounter, it was discovered that Charley Black, a close associate of Floyd's manager, Gus D'Amato, was connected with one Fat Tony Salerno, who is persona non grata in polite society. This, and other unsavory miscellany, resulted in D'Amato being delicensed in New York.

With all that and more on the record, it is difficult to see how Liston can be denied the right to ply his profession all the way to the ring's highest honors. Patterson still functions in New York, although his manager has no portfolio. Why not Liston?

Liston's record makes the forthcoming third "farewell appearance" between Patterson and Johansson seem as meaningless as a Fidel Castro speech. Sonny is slated to fight Eddie Machen, the only top heavyweight except Patterson and Johansson he hasn't beaten to the ground, in Seattle, Sept. 7. If he beats Machen, the only thing that can stand between him and the crown will be undue and uncalled-for squeamishness on the part of Johnny-Come-Lately do-gooders in the fight game.

Or the flimsy excuses the winner of the next Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson rigamarole undoubtedly will make to avoid facing the terrifying fighting machine that is Sonny Liston.

Royal City Squad Clinches Second

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—New Westminster made sure of finishing in second place in the Inter-City Lacrosse League standings by defeating third-place Nanaimo, 13-11, in a wild, brawling game here Thursday night.

The victory gave New Westminster 31 points to Nanaimo's 27 and made the final league game of the season between the same two clubs in Nanaimo Saturday night meaningless.

Ken Oddy, Bill Jobb and Cliff Sepka each scored three goals for New Westminster, with Sepka adding five assists for an impressive evening.

Skip MacKay, Jack Blonda, Joe White and Gogi Stewart each scored twice for Nanaimo. Nanaimo, who played a fierce brand of lacrosse throughout, was tagged with 54 minutes in penalties to New Westminster's 17. The Island side played almost the entire last period short-handed.

The result of the game gave New Westminster the advantage of its home floor for the first game of the playoffs which will be held next Wednesday.

MARTIN GOES SWINGING

Fireworks erupted in second inning of National League game at Chicago Thursday when Billy Martin (12) of Cincinnati uncorked a right-hand punch at rookie Chicago pitcher Jim

Brewer. Billy's wallop sent Brewer to hospital. Martin claimed pitcher was throwing at his head and stormed out to the mound to start brawl. (AP Wirephoto)

Billy Gets Another One; Brewer Out for Month

CHICAGO (UPI)—Infielder Billy Martin, his baseball career checkered by brawls on and off the playing field, could chalk up another fistic victim today. Chicago Cubs' rookie pitcher Jim Brewer.

Brewer, a 22-year-old southpaw, was hospitalized, and out of competition for a month, as the result of a broken eye orbit bone inflicted by one solid right hook by Martin Thursday after he suspected Brewer was throwing "at my head."

The punch, in the second inning of the Cincinnati Reds-Cubs game, brought every member of both squads to the field, but no further brawling occurred. Martin was banished from the game and Brewer sent to the hospital, his nose bleeding and his eye swollen.

Martin was penitent after the scrap, chiefly because his opponent had been hurt. "I don't like anybody to get hurt," he said. But in effect he charged that Brewer asked for it.

"He threw at my head," he said, "and then when I went out to get my bat, he started saying some things to me and giving me a lot of mouth, so I hit him. If he'd kept quiet, nothing would have happened."

BAT 'SLIPPED'

The incident began when Brewer's first pitch to Martin, high and inside, struck the bat as Martin backed away. Then came off his helmet to the backstop. On the next pitch, Martin swung, but the bat flew close to the pitcher's mound. Martin said it "slipped out of my hands."

Martin walked toward the mound and Brewer said he approached. "I asked 'do you want to fight,' he said, 'no, I just came after the bat, kid' and then he swung on me."

Brewer was toppled to the grass and Cubs first baseman Frank Thomas rushed into the fray. When the players of both teams arrived, they separated the trio and Reds manager Freddie Hutchinson said "Thomas was hitting Martin pretty good. I could see where he'd been hit good a couple of times."

"Nobody's going to throw at my head again," Martin said. "They knocked me down three times yesterday and his first pitch was behind my head. They can break my ribs and they can throw at my body, but nobody's going to hit me in the face."

HOLE IN ONE

The 170-yard 11th hole at Uplands Golf Club was spanned in one stroke Saturday by William A. Craven playing with Harold Woodson, Charles Tolson and Austin Flint.

Optimistic Hemus Bucks Big Odds

Solly's Cards Take Over Second Place

By Associated Press

"Los Angeles did it last year. Why can't we do it this year?"

That was St. Louis manager Solly Hemus' reply today when asked whether he thought his Cardinals could make the jump from seventh to first place in one year.

Solly was right about the Dodgers. But whether he's right about his Cardinals is something else. The odds are overwhelmingly against him. Only three clubs—the 1926 Yankees, 1946 Red Sox and 1959 Dodgers—have ever leaped from seventh to first place in one year.

Hemus, the eternal optimist, laughed at the odds.

"What would you say the odds were last spring against our being in second place this late in the season?" he asked.

SWEEP SERIES

That's exactly where the surprising St. Louis club landed last night after knocking off Milwaukee, 4-2, to sweep the three-game series with the Braves and extend its winning streak to seven games. Not since May, 1958, have the Cards put together as many consecutive triumphs.

The defeat was the Braves' fourth straight, seventh in the last eight games, and dropped them into third place, half a game behind St. Louis and four lengths back of Pittsburgh.

The Pirates defeated the Dodgers, 4-1, to remain 3½ games in front of St. Louis. San Francisco came from behind to nip Philadelphia, 8-7, and the Chicago Cubs downed Cincinnati, 5-3.

DAY OF FIRSTS

It was a day of "firsts" in the National League. The Cards whipped Bob Buhl for the first time this season, getting all their runs and six of seven hits in six innings off the Milwaukee right-hander.

Ray Sadecki, 19-year-old southpaw, hurled a six-inning and helped register his sixth victory with two singles.

Rookie second baseman Julian Javier tripled and scored the first St. Louis run.

George Witt posted his first victory since Sept. 5, 1958, pitching the Pirates to victory in the rubber of the three-game series with the Dodgers. He permitted only five hits in six innings. Elroy Face finished up.

STREAK SNAPPED

Rocky Nelson's homer and Dick Groat's sacrifice fly following Bill Virdon's triple, snapped Don Drysdale's six-game winning streak and enabled the Pirates to defeat the Dodgers' right-handed ace for the first time this season.

In the American League, nobody could blame the former Chicago White Sox battery of pitcher Ray Moore and catcher Earl Battey from shouting:

"Vengeance is mine."

Battey, traded by the White Sox to Washington just before the start of the season, hammered a two-run homer in the eighth inning Thursday night to beat White Sox 2-1.

Moore, sold by the Sox to Senators last June, stopped Chicago cold in a relief role, yielding only one hit in 2½ scoreless innings to gain credit for the victory.

FOURTH STRAIGHT

It was the fourth straight defeat for the defending American League champions, who dropped 1½ games behind the first place New York Yankees.

In the only other league action, Boston Red Sox swept an afternoon double-header from Kansas City 5-3 and 9-1. Baltimore, Cleveland, Detroit and New York were idle.

Battey, the Senators' stocky catcher, enjoyed the best night of his major league career. At bat, he had a perfect three for three and in the field he started two double plays and nipped two would-be base stealers.

B.C. TEAM SECOND

Alberta Star Equals Record

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Calgary's Rae Milligan, her sights set on her first Canadian women's close golf championship, took a three-stroke lead into today's second round of the 54-hole medal-play event.

Miss Milligan, three times runner-up in the event, fired a two-under-par 75 Thursday to equal the record over the 6,300-yard course at nearby Riverside Golf and Country Club.

Mrs. Robert Lyle of Montreal and Ruth Wilson of Vancouver had 78s for second place. In fourth place with a 79 was petite Judy Darling of Hudson Heights, Que., former Canadian junior champion.

JUST HOPING

"I'm not going to get overconfident. . . . There's still a long way to go," said Miss Milligan. "I just hope I continue to do as well."

Miss Milligan, who started playing 17 years ago upon the urging of her father, a Jasper, Alta., greens keeper, was the only player to better or match par. She tied the women's course record set by Mary Ellen Driscoll of the host club in 1957.

Her performance wasn't good enough to carry the Alberta team into the lead in the inter-provincial senior team competition, being staged in conjunction with the close tournament.

QUEBEC LEADS

Quebec held a four-stroke lead over British Columbia in that 36-hole event which ends today. Defending champion Ontario was third, 17 strokes ahead of Alberta.

Miss Wilson paced the B.C. team with her 39-39, 78 as the west coast quartet racked up a total 330. The other three members—Mrs. D. Naysmith and Mrs. A. DeGirolamo of Victoria and Vancouver's Gayle Hitchens—all had 43-41, 84 scores.

British Columbia's two-member junior team of Suzanne Foulds and Nancy Young of Vancouver, held a one-stroke lead over Quebec's Mary Darling and Lynn Chaplin in the junior division, which also ends today. Scores posted by junior competitors today will count as first-round results for the 36-hole national junior championship. British Columbia had an aggregate 179.

Election Machine at Work

A special cabinet meeting at Kelowna Wednesday morning was the curtain-raiser for B.C.'s election Sept. 12.

At that meeting two orders in-council were drawn up and signed — one to dissolve the 25th legislative assembly, the other to set nomination day, and by implication, voting day.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett took four of his closest cabinet colleagues to Kelowna for his personal nomination and the public meeting at which the election was formally announced.

At the special meeting were Attorney-General Robert Bonner, Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, Works Minister W. N. Chant, and Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan.

Attending as envoy was deputy provincial secretary Lawrie Wallace.

ORDERS APPROVED

Mr. Wallace flew to Vancouver to meet Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross with the two orders.

Mr. Ross had to approve the first one, recommending dissolution of the legislature, as listed B.C.'s 42 electoral districts and set nomination day at Aug. 29.

Mr. Wallace also had a separate proclamation dissolving the legislature, signed by himself and Attorney-General Bonner.

When all three documents were signed by the Lieutenant-Governor, Mr. Wallace wired the premier in Kelowna.

The telegram which played so prominent a part in Mr.

Bennett's Kelowna performance contained all dates — election day, closing day, nomination day, advance polling days. In listing the electoral districts, the order-in-council also gives locations for filing nominations.

Almost all are at local court houses, or municipal halls.

The Victoria office is at the courthouse. In Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay, candidates must take their papers to the municipal halls.

Advertisements will appear now until Aug. 11 urging all would-be voters to ensure they are on the voting list.

If they are not, registration offices will be listed.

The lists close Aug. 11 and anyone not on them will not be able to vote Sept. 12.

Actually, first ballots will be cast Sept. 8, when advance polls open.

EXPECT MORE VOTERS

Chief electoral officer Fred Hurley, the man who controls the province's vote machinery, is expecting a substantial increase in the number of eligible voters. He won't know exact figures until after closing day.

Mr. Hurley still has to appoint some 17 of the 42 returning officers in all constituencies. Some of them will simply be serving again in posts they held during the 1956 election.

Returning officers will be responsible for seeing that proclamations are displayed everywhere at least eight days before nomination day.

Next will start the job of sending out truckloads of ballots to all the ridings. Extra staff in Mr. Hurley's offices will be busy sorting and mailing right up to polling day.

Near-Perfect Harmony Reigns at Butchart's

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Hans Gruber sharpened his baton to a needle point Thursday and besides using it to keep his musicians well up on their toes, aimed it briefly but gently in this direction:

Commenting on excerpts from "The King and I," Mr. Gruber told his several thousand listeners that the song, "Getting to Know You" would be dedicated to "the critic of the evening newspaper, Mrs. Johnson"—doubtless a reference to certain remarks about the orchestra in this space a week ago.

Strangely enough, as the orchestra played the number, I found myself harmonizing softly with yet another excerpt from "The King and I."

NO TABLE MANNERS were forgotten by Vice-President Nixon when he took a meal of poi on his campaign trip to Hawaii—he was just making like a native. Poi is a Hawaiian staple food, a molasses-like paste made of mashed taro root. Traditionally it is eaten with the fingers. (AP Wirephoto)

Roach Powder Lunch Kills 3 Children

DANIA, Fla. (AP)—A lunch prepared by 12-year-old Ernest Nuby Jr., caring for his six brothers and sisters, Thursday killed three of the children and left two others seriously ill.

Coroner's officers termed the deaths accidental. The deadly meal consisted of guava fruit, pancake powder, sliced onion, salt and spices—and roach powder.

Sheriff's Deputy Jim Spears says each Negro child got about two teaspoonsful of the roach powder, which was fatal to Dorothy May, 4, Marilyn Juanita, 9, and Charles, 11.

Two other children are seriously ill. Ernest didn't eat any of the mixture and none was fed to Juanita, 2.

The parents had left Ernest in charge of the children while they were at work.

Interpretation Falls Short In Festival's Thriller

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Three premieres this week boosted the Vancouver International Festival into the second stage of its three-and-a-half-week orbit.

The children had their hour with "Noah's Flood" at Christ Church Cathedral. Geoffrey Holden's company of Trinidad dancers with Carmen de La Vallade brought a change of pace and a touch of barbaric splendor to the Queen Elizabeth stage, and James Yaffe's play, "The Deadly Game," opened at the International Cinema.

Of the first two, more later. Wednesday night's all-Canada premiere of the festival's main dramatic offering drew a full house, and half-a-dozen curtain calls.

A chilling atmosphere was created in the opening few seconds—a dark stage, a silhouetted tree thrashing wildly outside the window—but it was quickly dispelled and never recaptured.

Clearly the author intended his audience to share the growing unease of the American who is storm-bound in a remote precipice, perched Swiss chalet and induced to participate in a seemingly innocuous game with a group of retired lawyers.

But this did not, in fact, come off, due in part to a frequent hollow performance by Fred Diehl, who wore the role of the American like an ill-fitting coat; also in part to a halting pace that affected the whole play with an overcast of dullness.

Thus, this overcast may well lift in future performances when the cast shakes off its hesitancy-in-attack-and-settles into its stride. On the other hand it seemed that Dorothy Davies' direction had wavered between a straight comedy style and that of a "thriller" and this may have unsettled the cast.

Laughter there is, certainly, but it should be the mocking, often macabre laughter of the stringent satirist. Its purpose undoubtedly is to give biting accent to the play's symbolism.

Heavy Damage Claim

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—The Newport Jazz Festival Thursday filed a claim against the city for $450,000 damages for cancelling the licence for festival performances July 3 and 4.

The licence was cancelled by the city council after riots Saturday night, July 2.

Twice Prime Minister Meighen Dies at 86

TORONTO (CP) — Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, who became prime minister of Canada twice without winning an election, died quietly in his sleep shortly after 6 a.m. today. He was 86.

The distinguished elder statesman had been in rapidly failing health for several weeks and confined to bed in his Toronto home for 10 days. His wife and daughter, Mrs. Lillian Wright of London, Ont., were at his side.

A doctor who has attended Mr. Meighen for several years said: "He didn't suffer. He had been slipping away for the past few days."

Funeral arrangements are indefinite but it is expected that a state funeral will be held here with burial near the farm at St. Marys, Ont., where Mr. Meighen was born.

SPARKED CONTROVERSY
Mr. Meighen, oldest living former prime minister, headed a Conservative government in 1920 and 1921 and again in 1926. He was one of the nation's most controversial figures during his 23 years in Parliament.

Mr. Meighen was elected to the House of Commons on his first try from Portage la Prairie, Man., in 1908. After holding various cabinet posts during the First World War he became Conservative leader and prime minister following the retirement of Sir Robert Borden in 1920.

DEFEATED IN 1921
Fourteen months later he was defeated in the 1921 general election and for the next five years was Opposition leader. When Mackenzie King's Liberal government was defeated in the House in 1926 Mr. Meighen was called on to form the government. It lasted only a few days and in the election of that summer Mr. King was returned to office.

Mr. Meighen was personally defeated in his Manitoba riding of Portage during that election and retired from politics to begin his financial career. After six years as a financial counsellor in Toronto, he returned to Ottawa in 1932 as government leader of the Senate.

He left the Senate in 1941 to become Conservative party leader again but resigned the following year when he was defeated in a byelection. He never again sought active political office.

Mr. Meighen's two prime ministerial terms totalled 17½ months. Only Sir Charles Tupper, prime minister for nine weeks in 1896, had a briefer term.

He built up considerable wealth with several successful financial and credit companies.

At 80, still occasionally walking the 2½ miles to his office, Mr. Meighen shrugged off the "gloomy state" of old age. "The secret of keeping loneliness away," he said, "is to keep in touch with what is going on."

Six years ago he and Mrs. Meighen celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with their three children, Col. M. C. G. Meighen who was associated with his father in business, Theodore Roosevelt Meighen, a Montreal lawyer, and Mrs. Lillian Wright of London, Ont.

"DOMINANT FIGURE"
In tribute to the former prime minister, Premier Frost of Ontario said: "The passing of the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, despite his advanced years and failing health, is a matter of regret to us all because of the severance of a link with the history of Canada."

"For many years Mr. Meighen was a dominant figure in the political world and latterly in that of business."

Hon. Lester B. Pearson, national Liberal leader, stated all Canadians will be saddened at the death of one of Canada's outstanding citizens, a former prime minister who made a distinguished contribution in politics and in business to the development of our country. Few Canadians, in all our history, have surpassed him in intellectual brilliance and incisive skill in debate; few Canadians have ever served their country—in various fields of activity—so selflessly and well over so long a time. To his family, I send my deep and sincere condolences.

ARSON CHARGED IN FOREST FIRES

Forest fires are being deliberately set in B.C. A high forests department spokesman said today four persons have been prosecuted this year. Two were at Nelson; two at Ashcroft.

The fire setting in many instances has taken place because men in the areas involved were unemployed.

At Kamloops "at least 100" men were waiting around the ranger station for fire-fighting work.

So organized is the fire-lighting campaign that the forestry department and RCMP have put undercover men into the central B.C. area.

This has eliminated at least one fire.

The department official said one of the department's officers "drank beer" in a central B.C. tavern, with several other persons, who confided to him they were going to start a fire.

Accompanied by an RCMP officer in mufti he went to nearby forest land, and when a torch was applied, arrests followed.

MONTE ROBERTS

I seem to go on at great lengths about the parking situation in this fair city, especially the parking meter situation, and the violation of same.

This is because I am intrigued by many facets of the situation, and there appear to be new ones developing at rapid intervals.

The latest development developed at the corner of Pandora and Douglas, on the City Hall side of the street.

There are a series of parking spaces, all neatly metered, extending from Broad to Douglas.

The very end space at Douglas has recently acquired a sign.

The sign reads "for small car only."

Now, the reason is obvious, because some of the modern monsters, when parked in this end space, had their tail fins dragging halfway across the cross walk.

But what intrigues me is this:

How small is a small car?

And what is the penalty if not-quite-small-enough car uses this space?

To explain—if explanation is needed—I drive what I consider to be a small car.

But it is bigger than a really small car, and almost twice as big as a really, REALLY small car.

Thus, what would my legal position be if I were to use this small car parking space, and a prejudiced commissioner who owned a smaller car came along and gave me a ticket for not having a small enough car?

There is another point.

Supposing the space were occupied by a man who owns a Chevrolet.

And he was accused of parking a big car where the rules call for a small car, only.

And supposing that the man entered a defence to the effect that the company that makes his car makes at least three cars BIGGER than his car, and therefore, his car, appears to be, to the contrary, is a small car?

I don't know about you, but I am going to keep my eye on the corner of Pandora and Douglas.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The intermediate group of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Monterey Restaurant parking lot for a field trip to Saanichton Spit.

Ernest Charles Wyatt, Vancouver Street, was bonded for $250 for a year's good behavior when he pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Thursday to assault causing bodily harm to his wife, Pearl Wyatt.

Court was told the accused struck the complainant with the flat of his hand, shattering an ear drum.

Victoria Bluebird Majorettes will be providing car wash facilities at the Cross Road Service Station, Cedar Hill Cross Road at Shelbourne, between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday.

The cost will be $1 a car and the proceeds will be used to purchase new equipment.

During the late afternoon the majorettes will give a display at Shelbourne Shopping Plaza.

An unidentified naval officer early Thursday made a crash landing through a gate.

He apparently whistled through the locked gate of the Tri-Service College at Royal Roads.

The gate is closed daily between 7 p.m. and 8 a.m. It is located between the Belmont housing development and the college.

Half of the seven-foot mesh gate was found lying on the ground Thursday morning.

Incident is being investigated by naval authorities.

United Commercial Travelers' Association and the Greater Victoria Retarded Children's Association will be holding a fund-raising tag day in downtown Victoria Saturday.

Harry C. Lumb, no fixed address, pleaded guilty in city police court today to stealing a U-drive car from Dixon Brothers Ltd.

He was remanded until next Friday for sentence.

According to police, Lumb rented the car for a few days and took it to Vancouver where he attempted to sell the vehicle. The car was valued at $2,000.

The Oak Bay Playground swimming classes at the Crystal pool during the past five weeks have been so successful it has been decided to extend them a further three weeks.

So far 140 children have learned to swim and will be presented with certificates Saturday by Mrs. H. A. Beckwith. The presentations will take place between 9:30 and 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Beckwith is one of the playground organizers.

Mrs. D. T. Hawkes is the other. Frank Kennedy has been supervising the classes, the smallest of which numbered 125 youngsters, and the largest, 180.

Pleading guilty to a charge of stealing a chain saw belonging to Alf Becker, N. R. Nelson, no fixed address, was remanded in city police court today until next Friday for sentence.

Police told the court that Nelson, a former foreman for B.C. Forest Products Ltd., was out of work. He attempted to pawn the chain saw in Vancouver, they said.

A $5,000 project of converting the city welfare building's basement into a family and juvenile court headquarters will be completed next week, a city hall spokesman said today.

The renovations have established a courtroom, judge's quarters, prosecutor's office, custody room, waiting room and vaults in the basement.

NO LIVES LOST

Memories of 1910 Wreck Still Clear to Teacher

Fifty years ago today, at two o'clock in the morning, the sleek CPR coastwise steamer Princess May, southward bound from Ketchikan, ground to a shuddering halt on Sentinel Island, a barnacle-encrusted reef in Hecate Strait.

One of the passengers aboard was retired Victoria school teacher Miss Sophie Hiscocks, and her recollection of the accident is as vivid today as it was a half century ago.

"It was a calm, clear night," she said. "The passengers there weren't very many—were awakened and put into the lifeboats."

"There was no panic. Nobody was killed or even injured."

"It was a good thing it was so calm. The lifeboats took us to the lighthouse at Porcher Island."

"We waited there until six o'clock that evening, when a tug arrived and took us to Juneau."

"At Juneau, the good old Princess Mary—the one that's now a restaurant—picked us up and brought us home to Victoria."

PERCHED ON ROCK
"At Juneau, the good old Princess Mary—the one that's now a restaurant—picked us up and brought us home to Victoria."

Second Ace Worth $50 At Gyro Golf

Latest winner of the $50 hole-in-one prize at the Gyro carnival, Royal Athletic Park, is Bernie Rogers, 5187 Cordova Bay Road.

His success on Thursday brings the number of visiting sharpshooters to two—Dr. Robert G. Whitehead, a Gyro member, opened the scoring with a hole-in-one Wednesday.

Thursday night saw an innovation in the form of an auction. Under the hammer of Frank Kilshaw a number of household items donated by Gyro members and an auto raised $350.

CARS ON BLOCK
A brand new scooter worth $250 and two more cars are included in the line-up for Saturday's auction.

The carnival continues to night and Saturday. The last day will see children's sports in the afternoons and more attractions in the evening.

Miss Hiscocks recalls that the May stayed perched on her "private rock" for eight months as tides rose and fell, and the owners and underwriters worked out an agreement.

"They finally pulled her off."

It cost $85,000," Miss Hiscocks remembers.

The May was sold in Vancouver to a fruit importing firm, and for many years served as a banana boat before finally ending her days at the shipbreakers.

HIGH APARTMENT TREND FORECAST

Almost half of the 2,500 apartment suites expected to be in use in Victoria during the next two decades probably will be in a few luxury skyscrapers in the James Bay area.

"It will mean the investment of $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 in the next few years," said assistant engineer Roderick Clack today.

The first of the proposed "high rise" structures—which will go up as high as 12 storeys—is under study by the building and technical planning department.

This is an eight-storey, 60-suite development planned by Westcott Apartments Ltd. of Vancouver on property at 238 Douglas. The luxury suites would range from one-bedroom units to two-bedroom, two-bathroom suites of more than 1,000 square feet.

TORONTO PURCHASE
Property for another eight-storey, 100-suite apartment has been purchased on Kingston Street by realtor Gordon Chapman of Toronto.

City council has given three readings to a bylaw which would permit the high rise apartments on a limited scale, starting with the Westcott development.

It represents a dramatic shift in town planning here, breaking away from the present regulations which have held apartment building size down to three storeys.

A public hearing will be held at the next council meeting, Aug. 18, before final reading of the bylaw is considered.

PROTEST LODGED
One protest against the bylaw has been lodged—but it objects to rezoning a single site for the low type of apartment instead of presentation of and overall plan marking out which sites eventually will be included in the new zoning provisions.

(The advisory planning commission has indicated that the high rise buildings should be limited to a few carefully selected sites, overlooking Beacon Hill Park and the Dallas waterfront, which would total about 30 acres.)

The objection by Aubrey Kent, 228 Douglas, a member of the zoning board of appeal, was contained in a letter sent to City Hall claiming the bylaw was creating "spot zoning" because it dealt with only one property and not an area.

DISADVANTAGE
He said piecemeal zoning of tall apartment sites would leave present property owners at a disadvantage because they would not know what potential developments could go up on their holdings.

The planning commission is surveying a number of sites that should be included in an overall rezoning plan later.

It argues that the time has come for Victoria to pick a few sites for skyscraper development because the city is rapidly running out of unused lots so dwelling structures will have to go "up" if more people are to live in the city.

Peking Opera Festival Show For Victoria

The glamorous and unique Peking Opera—which is no opera in the western sense but more in the nature of a superlative variety show—will be the attraction for Victoria's official night at Vancouver International Festival.

North American premiere for this fabulous group will take place Aug. 10 at the Queen Elizabeth Theatre.

Third of their five performances, Friday, Aug. 12, has been chosen as Victoria night, when an official group, led by Mayor Percy Scurrell, will represent the capital city.

It is expected many Victorians will take this opportunity of a package trip that includes bus and boat transportation to Vancouver, dinner, a good seat at the theatre and return by plane.

Arrangements are being made through the Featherstone Travel Agency which points out that the deadline for reservations is 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, although tickets may be picked up later.

Citizens Rallying For Chest

$350,000 Drive To Open Oct. 3

Official opening of Victoria's Community Chest campaign is scheduled this year for Oct. 3 and plans are already well advanced.

This year's goal of $350,000 is up 19 per cent on last year's figure of $295,000.

Bernard Van Aggelen, 1960 community chest campaign chief volunteer, today outlined this year's fund raising strategy.

"We are giving top priority to organization so that every prospective donor has an opportunity to give," he said.

"All key areas are covered, except one, and my fellow members of the campaign committee are extremely pleased with the response we are enjoying in our recruiting."

500 RECRUITED
"More than 500 key personnel have been enrolled to date and these are now in the process of recruiting their canvassers."

Mr. Van Aggelen said emphasis in canvassing would be placed on the fair share formula, which had been arrived at after careful studies by committees of the chest over the past two years.

Donations by firms, they suggested, should be based on the fair share corporate yardstick, while the suggested contribution for an individual was a day's pay.

To ensure complete understanding of the chest's aims, it was going to be "the best publicized campaign ever to hit Victoria," Mr. Van Aggelen said.

MISS RED FEATHER

The Miss Red Feather contest, which proved so popular last year, is definitely going to be repeated, he said. Agencies will be asked to name a volunteer or client to compete. The contest is open to any female between eight months and 80.

Once the campaign gets under way some 3,700 volunteers will be at work raising money for the 22 member agencies that make up the chest.

The canvassing area will stretch from Sooke to Sidney taking in 43,000 homes with a total population of 137,000.

Considerable weight will be given to the campaign by the "joining-up" of Victoria Jaycees.

Edward Bird, director of the Jaycee Social Welfare Committee, told the chest this week junior chamber members are prepared to canvass half the number in the small business section.

Cabinet Names 18 Officials For Election

A former local Social Credit official has been appointed returning officer for the Victoria constituency in the provincial election.

One of 18 returning officers named today by cabinet order is Archie M. Browne, formerly president of the Victoria Social Credit Association in 1953 and later its secretary-treasurer. Now retired, Mr. Browne was in the roofing business.

Other local appointees are D. G. Woods, in Esquimalt, and Mrs. Thelma Cook in Saanich.

RE-APPOINTED

Mrs. Cook served in the 1956 election, but had to be re-appointed as she re-married. Her name formerly was Clark.

Named for the post in Nanaimo is S. W. Blyth.

Oak Bay returning officer Ken Murphy serves again.

Four Island Men Pass First Year Of Realtor Study

Four Vancouver Island students have been successful in the first year of a three-year diploma course in Real Estate and Appraisal at University of British Columbia.

They are J. L. Whitton, Duncan, and N. G. Curbishley, W. P. Wright, and P. G. Jackson of Victoria.

The course was initiated last fall by Real Estate Council of British Columbia and the Faculty of Commerce and Business Administration at the University.

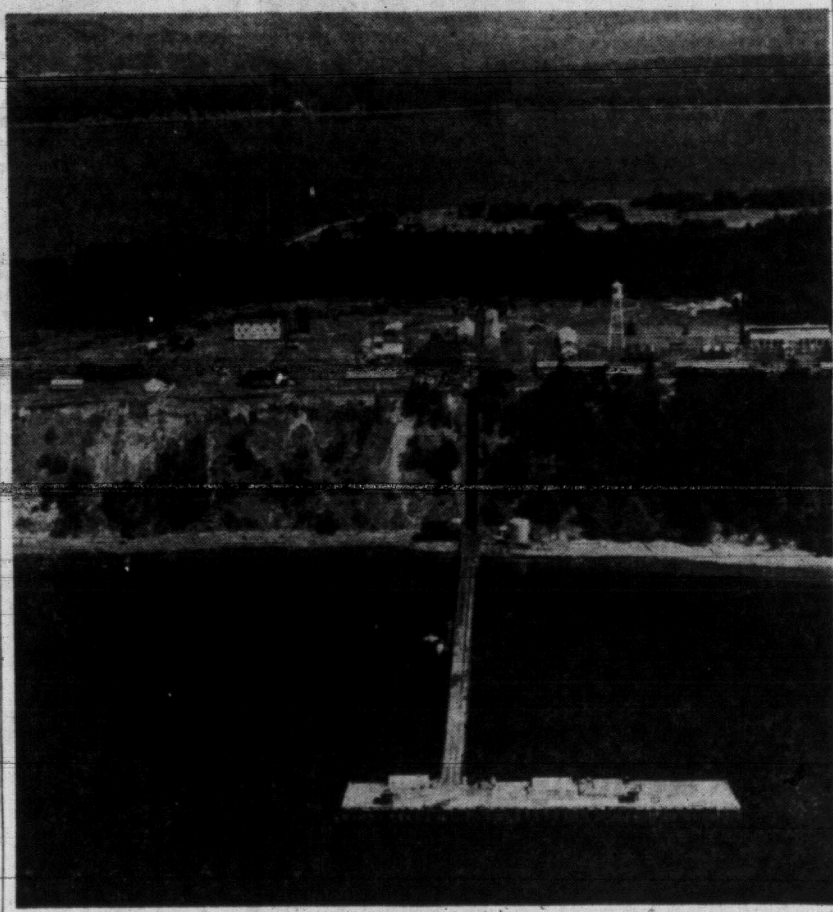

Successful students will be eligible to start second year course Sept. 14. Another first year class will start on the same day.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. For what percentage of the ordinary work year is a school classroom in use in B.C.?—T.H.

A. With minimum classroom use taking up 5 1/2 hours a day five days weekly, and taking away holidays, classroom use over a year amounts to about 1,100 hours. With an average work week of 40 hours for wage earners, and taking out two weeks holidays, the average worker is on the job close to 2,000 hours a year. So the difference runs to about 50 per cent on this basis. But in addition it also must be remembered that many schoolrooms are used for night-school classes, P.T.A. meetings, and summer school utilization.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve controversial or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

ARSON CHARGED IN FOREST FIRES

Forest fires are being deliberately set in B.C.

A high forests department spokesman said today four persons have been prosecuted this year. Two were at Nelson; two at Ashcroft.

The fire setting in many instances has taken place because men in the areas involved were unemployed.

At Kamloops "at least 100" men were waiting around the ranger station for fire-fighting work.

So organized is the fire-lighting campaign that the forestry department and RCMP have put undercover men into the central B.C. area.

This has eliminated at least one fire.

The department official said one of the department's officers "drank beer" in a central B.C. tavern, with several other persons, who confided to him they were going to start a fire.

Accompanied by an RCMP officer in mufti he went to nearby forest land, and when a torch was applied, arrests followed.

MONTE ROBERTS

I seem to go on at great lengths about the parking situation in this fair city, especially the parking meter situation, and the violation of same.

This is because I am intrigued by many facets of the situation, and there appear to be new ones developing at rapid intervals.

The latest development developed at the corner of Pandora and Douglas, on the City Hall side of the street.

There are a series of parking spaces, all neatly metered, extending from Broad to Douglas.

The very end space at Douglas has recently acquired a sign.

The sign reads, "for small car only."

Now, the reason is obvious, because some of the modern monsters, when parked in this end space, had their tail fins dragging halfway across the cross walk.

But what intrigues me is this:

How small is a small car?

And what is the penalty if not-quite-small-enough car uses this space?

To explain—if explanation is needed—I drive what I consider to be a small car.

But it is bigger than a really small car, and almost twice as big as a really, REALLY small car.

Thus, what would my legal position be if I were to use this small car parking space, and a prejudiced commissioner who owned a smaller car came along and gave me a ticket for not having a small enough car?

There is another point.

Supposing the space were occupied by a man who owns a Chevrolet.

And he was accused of parking a big car where the rules call for a small car, only.

And supposing that the man entered a defence to the effect that the company that makes his car makes at least three cars BIGGER than his car, and therefore, his car, appearances to the contrary, is a small car?

I don't know about you, but I am going to keep my eye on the corner of Pandora and Douglas.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The intermediate group of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Monterey Restaurant parking lot for a field trip to Saanich Spit.

Ernest Charles Wyatt, Vancouver Street, was bonded for $250 for a year's good behavior when he pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Thursday to assault causing bodily harm to his wife, Pearl Wyatt.

Court was told the accused struck the complainant with the flat of his hand, shattering an ear drum.

Victoria Bluebird Majorettes will be providing car wash facilities at the Cross Road Service Station, Cedar Hill Cross Road at Shelbourne, between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday.

The cost will be $1 a car and the proceeds will be used to purchase new equipment.

During the late afternoon the majorettes will give a display at Shelbourne Shopping Plaza.

An unidentified naval officer early Thursday made a crash landing—through a gate. He apparently whistled through the locked gate of the Tri-Service College at Royal Roads.

The gate is closed daily between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. It is located between the Belmont housing development and the college.

Half of the seven-foot mesh gate was found lying on the ground Thursday morning.

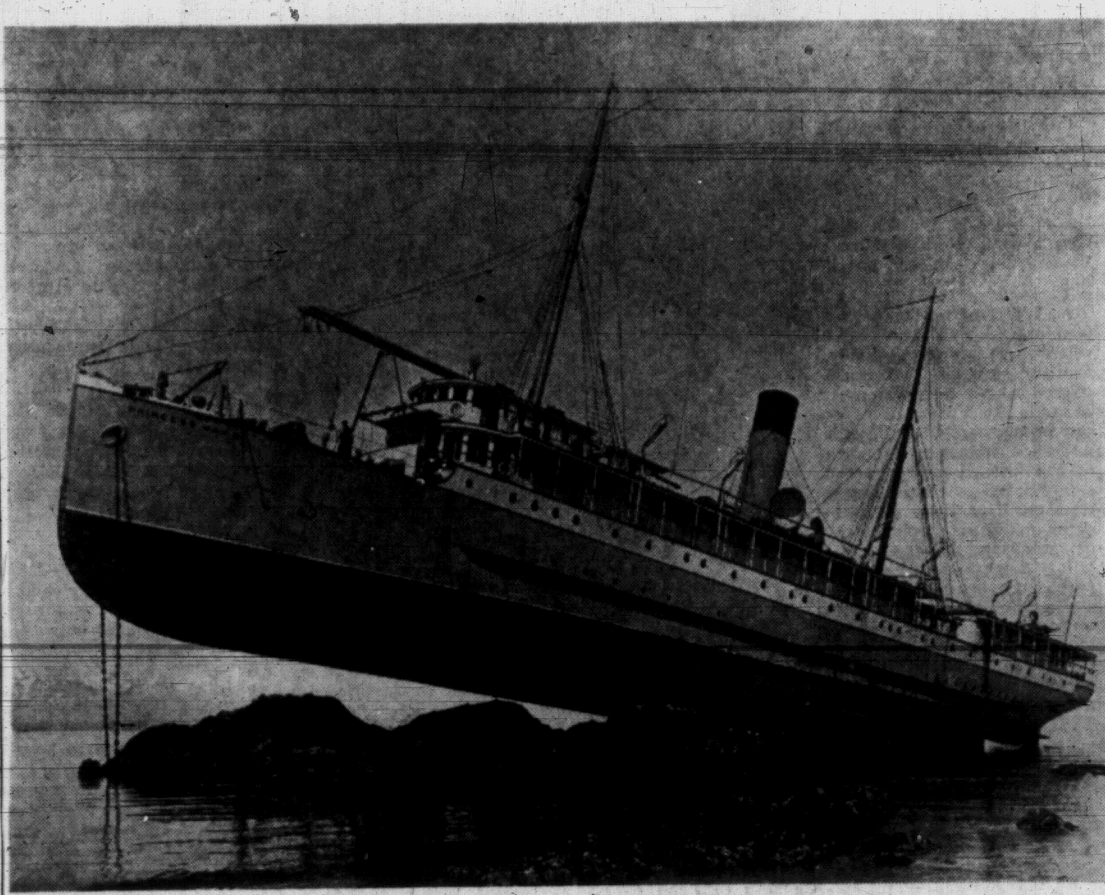

Incident is being investigated by naval authorities.

United Commercial Travelers' Association and the Greater Victoria Retarded Children's Association will be holding a fund-raising tag day in downtown Victoria Saturday.

Harry C. Lumb, no fixed address, pleaded guilty in city police court today to stealing a U-drive car from Dixon Brothers Ltd.

He was remanded until next Friday for sentence.

According to police, Lumb rented the car for a few days and took it to Vancouver where he attempted to sell the vehicle. The car was valued at $2,000.

NO LIVES LOST

Memories of 1910 Wreck Still Clear to Teacher

Fifty years ago today, at two o'clock in the morning, the sleek CPR coastwise steamer Princess May, southward bound from Ketchikan, ground to a shuddering halt on Sentinel Island; a barnacle-encrusted reef in Hecate Strait.

One of the passengers aboard was retired Victoria school teacher Miss Sophie Hiscocks, and her recollection of the accident is as vivid today as it was a half century ago.

Miss Hiscocks recalls that the May stayed perched on her "private rock" for eight months as tides rose and fell, and the owners and underwriters worked out an agreement.

"They finally pulled her off."

It cost $85,000," Miss Hiscocks remembers.

The May was sold in Vancouver to a fruit importing firm, and for many years served as a banana boat before finally ending her days at the shipbreakers.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Could This Bulge Be Bone?
Better Exercise to Gain

Q. "My problem is not quite as simple as losing pounds. I am 5 feet 4 inches tall and weigh 105 pounds. My problem is spot reducing. I have very thin legs, but the upper and inner portions of my thighs are bulky and fat. I am wondering if there are any exercises which will help."

Josephine

A. I do not see how in the world you could have a bulge! Are you sure it isn't a bone? Even if you have a small build you should weigh around 119 pounds.

I think that what you see is a muscle and that you do not have enough fat to fill out the contour of your leg properly. You really should gain weight. It is true that even slim women, who are not at all overweight, sometimes have rolls and bulges which make their silhouette out of proportion. Specialized exercise is the answer and works wonders.

However, in the case above, when the woman is so underweight, I rather think the problem is as I stated it. Exercise will help firm and will increase appetite and therefore is a valuable asset in gaining, firming and developing lovely curves without bulges.

Q. "Please help me with my problem because I am desperate. I am a young teenager and still growing. My legs are fatter than they should be and there are marks on my legs showing where the skin has stretched. I am wondering if these marks will ever disappear and my skin adjust to its proper position if I reduce. I hate to wear shorts because people ask me about those marks."

A. Well, I think people are rude to ask you about the marks. You did not tell me your height or weight or how much overweight you are. However, it is true that overweight can cause the marks you mention.

Let's put it this way—staying fat certainly will not help them. I cannot say whether or not they will ever disappear but they will fade with time. Put yourself in the hands of your family physician for a loss of weight. In the meantime do not let the marks spoil your fun or happiness. This is a very small defect, and you can hide the marks with a waterproof make-up.

Q. "Is it usual for women to have quite an itch around the waistline due to wearing a girdle? I have this even when I do not perspire and the girdle is worn loosely. It's such an aggravating condition!"

A. No, it is not usual. I suggest that you ask your doctor about it. It could come from an allergy to the material from which the girdle is made.

Cackling
Laugh
No Asset

A cackling shrill laugh is no asset to any woman. But it's surprising how many women possess just such a laugh.

Next time you're with your friends at a luncheon, afternoon tea or coffee get-together, listen to the laughter about the table. You may be shocked at what you hear. Paired with this laughter will be strident voices.

Now, listen to your own. Is it clear and low or high and grating? If it's the latter, you can do something about it. With practice, you can learn to pitch both your voice and your laughter to a lower key. But do it in the privacy of your own bedroom where you needn't be self-conscious.

Strive to speak distinctly in a low, pleasant voice. It won't come to you immediately, of course. It takes time. But with persistence, you'll find you needn't be a mature woman who dates herself with cackling laugh.

One of the handiest ways to apply eye shadow or eye liner is with a little brush and the liquid eye shadow which comes in a bottle.

Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

If your suitcases haven't been used for some time and have been stored in a cupboard in the cellar chances are that they'll have a musty odor about them when you open them up before your next trip. To combat this, wash the inside with a solution of vinegar and water in equal parts, and leave the suitcase open in the sun for a while. If the odor persists, spray oil of lavender inside.

Even cleaning may be made easier by placing a small bowl containing 1 pint of ammonia inside and leaving overnight. The fumes will loosen the grease and a quick flick with a damp cloth will leave the enamel clean and sparkling.

A child-proof medicine chest is a necessity in any home where there is a young family. Enticing looking pills and colored cough mixtures must be out of reach of peering eyes and prying hands. If there is no locker, cabinet the top shelf of the kitchen cupboard can safely take its place. Large cans (such as those for powdered milk) may hold bottles of medicine, bandages and pills. Bright colored enamel paint may be used for easy finding, and the contents listed on paper protected by pieces of plain polythene film. The colors can be keyed—red for poisons, yellow for pills and green for bandages.

DEAR ABBY: In answering the telephone in one's own home is it proper to say, "Hello, sufficient?" Or is "Hello" sufficient?

DEAR ABBY: When I have pictures taken of my children, my mother-in-law is the first one with her hand out. "How about mine?" she says. I have spent a lot of money on pictures of the kids for her (and she asks for the big colored ones), but when I go to her house I have to hunt in her drawers to find them. Don't you think, if a person asks for pictures, they should put them out where everybody can see them or else keep still?

DEAR TROUBLED: Don't hold a woman's past foolishness against her. Judge her on her present behavior. We have all done a few stupid things in the past.

DEAR ABBY: Am I being expensive kind—give her the narrow-minded? We have negatives.

Beauty of the Gardens Brings Founders Close

By Elizabeth Forbes

Watching a round, yellow moon rise slowly over the cedar trees in the Butchart Gardens yesterday evening; listening to music and every once and a while, catching the essence of flower scents that rise with coming of eventide, I found myself thinking of a day when there was no Butchart gardens—only an unsightly hole in the ground.

My thoughts were brought into sharp focus by two things said during the evening.

Dr. Nicholas Goldschmidt, musical director of Vancouver's International Festival, when he was introduced to the audience, said: "I have travelled much... I have seen many places... but truly I think this must be one of the most beautiful settings in the world. You are very lucky!"

The other comment, was made by Mr. W. C. Dodsworth, assistant manager of the Butchart Gardens who came on stage to thank the West Vancouver boys' band that entertained us in a pre-concert presentation.

Mr. Dodsworth said: "There is little tangible evidence here to remind you of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butchart who originated these gardens... but, if you look around you cannot fail to know the beauty of their souls."

Immediately, in my mind's eye, I could see them—the tall, slightly stooped man and the little woman with the friendly smile.

A Story That Is Retold Many Times

And I thought of the classic story that tells of the beginning of the Butchart Gardens.

It is the story of a woman's love of beauty and a man's love for his wife.

Robert Butchart came west from Ontario down near the beginning of this century, to open a limestone quarry on Saanich Inlet. His wife, Jenny, was with him—and they lived in a small cottage near his work. When the quarry was worked out, an ugly pit sprang up below the cottage.

Jenny Butchart hated ugliness. She looked at the abandoned quarry and she had an inspiration:

"Let's plant it with flowers, Bob. Let's make it beautiful."

Anything his wife wished was all right with Robert Butchart. "Think you can do it?" he asked. "I know I can," was Jenny Butchart's reply. He helped her with money; he gave her his Chinese wisteria to assist; he took an interest in the project, because he, too, loved beauty, and he didn't like the look of that ugly hole in the ground even if it did mean business success.

Both Robert and Jenny Butchart are dead now but their grandson, Ian Ross, who grew up in the gardens and learned to love them; continues the work that sees new landscaping done each year.

The inspiration that was born in the mind of a woman who hated ugliness, has grown into an enterprise of world renown and has brought pleasure and happiness to more than three generations of Victorians and to many thousands of visitors.

Works From Stamp-Size Patterns

CONESTOGO, Ont. (ACP)—community a few miles north of Waterloo where they re-togo 24 years ago. Among women who do embroidery, Mrs. Marvin C. Stroth, 73, is a specialist.

For 35 years she has been spending every minute of her free time embroidering patterns for Lutheran Churches. Parameters are the cloths that cover the pulpit, lectern and altar as well as the minister's stole. Churches may have as many as four sets, white, violet, red and green, for the four seasons of the church calendar.

It takes Mrs. Stroth 2½ months of painstaking labor to work Christian symbols into each set. The church's pastor usually chooses the symbols from a book on ecclesiastical art published by the United Lutheran Publication House.

The illustrations are just about postage stamp size so Mrs. Stroth copies them free-hand to the proper dimensions, then sets to work with single strands of embroidery floss to apply such designs as crosses, palms and crowns of thorns.

Assembling the materials for her work is often a problem. The heavy silk brocade which costs $18 a yard must be brought in from New York. She refuses to use anything but real silk floss which must come from Quebec. The gold fringe is purchased from a regalia company.

Churches may order machine-made embroideries from suppliers but Mrs. Stroth says with pride, "They're nothing compared to my work."

Married 53 years, she lives with her husband, 75, in this

Talk with Me

Hour-Long California Rodeo at 8.30; Jazz Age Repeat at 10

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

I HAVE HEARD MUCH PRAISE from friends for the CBC summer series titled "Case For the Court" and, therefore, turned to it Wednesday night with more than ordinary interest.

Obviously patterned after such popular U.S. programs as "Divorce Court," "People's Court," "Night Court" and so on, series designed for the sole purpose of allowing the viewer to suffer vicariously through the sad plight of others, "Case For the Court" had something else to offer—explanations of Canadian law for Canadians.

The play I watched, "False Arrest," needed such a sound reason for its presence. It was unexciting, worthy, amateurishly acted and lost any suspense it might have built up through the introduction of a wide-eyed and aggressively eager panel of kibitzers who questioned Judge H. E. Fuller upon his pronouncements and eventual verdict.

Nonetheless, the point made following the pleas for both sides by lawyers Douglas Brown and Joseph McIntyre was a nice one. It seems that a shopkeeper should not make a lay arrest of one of his customers merely on suspicion that she has been helping herself to his worldly goods.

If he does and his suspicions prove groundless then he has left himself open to a suit and—at least in the case before the court Wednesday night—to a fine of $100 and costs.

Perhaps if the case had been a more exciting one I wouldn't have had the time or inclination to notice the other weaknesses mentioned.

OR PERHAPS I HAD VIEWED "Case For the Court" with a more or less jaundiced eye because of my reaction to CBC's "First Person" that has preceded it. It may or may not have been the worst half-hour play of the summer, I wouldn't know. I was away for two weeks.

First of all Audrey Piggott's "Kukla" was as stagey and unreal as one could expect from "The Little Players in the Family Game." It was almost as though Jan Campbell, Maude Whitmore and the others were frightened by their lines, which may very well have been the case because they were truly frightened.

It was all about a little monster of a girl and her doll Kukla. The child it seemed was raised in a Greek village where "Evil Eyes" and voodooism were as natural and real as television to Punkie Doodles Corner. And what that kid could do to her aunt by sticking pins into her doll shouldn't have happened to a Borgia.

On the other hand my feeling for Miss Piggott's version of "The Bad Seed" might easily have been precipitated by my reaction to the Millionaire's "Millionaire Bill Franklin" which I had watched a half-hour before. It was revolting.

Ah me and summer TV!

Ontario Censors Cause Elmer Gantry Blackout

TORONTO (CP). — Ontario showings of the movie Elmer Gantry have been cancelled because of a deletion requested by the Ontario motion picture censor board. United Artists said actor-producer Burt Lancaster would not agree to the deletion — one scene with six words. The movie is based on a Sinclair Lewis novel about a rural evangelist whose private life contrasts with his fire-and-brimstone sermons.

Rift With Peking Widens As Russian Loses Temper

By CARL O. BOLANG
STOCKHOLM (AP). — A ranking West European Communist has returned from Peking with a report of stormy scenes between Soviet and Red Chinese leaders at a labor conference in the Chinese capital.

The conference reached a showdown when the Chinese Communists tried to ram through a resolution approving a free hand for Peking to use any conflict situation in Asia for war purposes. The resolution was blocked by stiff opposition from the Russians, the West European Communist said.

OBEY PARENTS

Youth No Problem To Turkish Police

By AB KENT
The Turks, once a fierce, barbaric nation, could teach Canadian parents a lot about rearing respectful, law-abiding children.

The rift between Peking and Moscow proved wider than any of the Western Communists had believed. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's theories on peaceful co-existence were reported condemned by Chinese Communists of all ranks and standings.

GLOWWORMS REALLY 'LIT'; IS IT A-BOMBS OR LOVE?

BATH, England (AP). — Glowworms in England are shining with unusual brilliance this year, and a spare-time naturalist suggests they may be pepped up by nuclear fallout.

"I'm wondering whether strontium-90, settling down after atomic bomb explosions, may be giving fire to the fireflies," Elphick added that he's not a scientist, "just a spare-time naturalist."

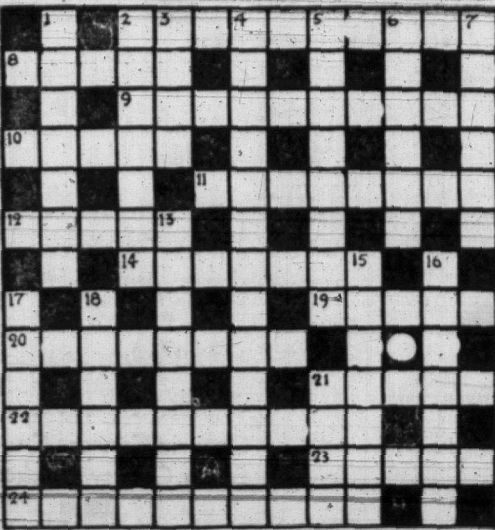

On the meadows of west England they light up the soft summer twilight with a beautiful, greenish-white shimmer, many times brighter than in former years.

The female glowworm, really a belle half-an-inch long, can't fly. The male has wings. The female calls attention to herself with her winking light, or with a steady glow in case of urgency. The male sees where to go.

SOLUTION MONDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to John Meissner, aged 12, of Chicago, Ill., for his question:

How Does Soap Remove Dirt?

Plain water does not do much to clean a dirty rag. True, some of the dirt may come out and float away. Most of it seems to be merely distributed, for the rag comes out a dirty color all over. But a little soap in the water makes all the difference. It makes the water bubble and froth. The dirt, by some magic, is pulled out of the cloth and, with a clear rinse, disappears down the drain.

The action of the soap takes place in three stages. First it makes water wetter. This is called the detergent action. Water, though we may not notice it, has a surface tension rather like an elastic skin. This surface tension can stretch quite far without breaking. It does not break when the wind blows the ocean surface into waves. But, when stretched too far, these waves break in foamy white caps and frothy sea spray.

The chemical action of soap weakens the surface tension of the water, breaks its skin so that it can penetrate. This wetter water carries molecules of soap into the fabric of the cloth and these soap molecules are very active. Each molecule is a long chain of atoms, one end of which is positively charged, the other negative. It is thought that one end of a soap molecule attracts grease and the other end attracts water. Step two occurs when one end of a soap molecule grabs onto a particle of grease and the other end grabs onto a particle of water.

Perhaps you are wondering where the grease comes from. Almost all grime and dirt has a greasy base. In fact, it is a grease of some sort which makes dirt stick to your hands, to clothes or to anything else. Dirt sticks to your hands because your skin is covered with a fine film of oil. When you wash your hands, countless molecules of soap go to work. Each uses one arm to pull at a particle of dirty grease and one arm to pull at the water.

The last stage is the easy one and the one we are most apt to forget. We have to remove the emulsion of water and dirty suds. This, of course, is done with a rinse of clear water. As the rinse water runs down the drain, it carries with it the dissolved grease and, sticking to the grease is the dirt.

Little Soap Goes Long Way

This action makes an emulsion of water, soapy suds and greasy dirt. This is the time to see that no dirty spot is forgotten. For the suds must reach and soak into every area of the cloth or skin if all the dirt is to be removed. And it is always amazing how pulled away by a small amount of soap.

DO YOU KNOW

To reduce B.C.'s Provincial debt $222 Million, Social Credit increased our so-called Contingent Liability $516 Million?

GO ON!

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"Between '42 and '53—over 11 years—I made $4,000,000," Dick Haymes said. "Probably a little more."

"I went through the stages of airplanes, big houses, boats—and taxes. Finally I was in such debt that every place I worked, my salary was attached. I faced it for five years. But I just couldn't make it. So I filed bankruptcy."

And now, on Monday, the new-Dick Haymes, with the debts washed out—all except the taxes, $40,000 due the U.S.—alone—will start his comeback at the Roundtable, along with his attractive wife, Fran Jeffries.

"We're going to have a 13-piece orchestra, for which I'm picking up the tab," Dick said proudly.

DICK HAYMES he'll try again.

SONALI DAS GUPTA

He spoke with great pride, too, this former husband of Rita Hayworth, Nora Eddington and Joanne Dru, about Fran Jeffries.

"I was bored," he said. "I was disgusted because of mismanagement, and I didn't think anybody gave a damn. Then I saw Fran singing in San Francisco and I flipped."

"Now they're perfectly harassed, each has a new album out, they have a daughter, Stephanie, 13 months old ('She's a gas')—which makes three daughters and a son of 18 for Dick. The big thing is, Dick's voice is excellent—his album 'Richard the Lion-Hearted' is personally recommended by my B.W. and now, he says, 'I can see a chink of light.'"

We sat at the Absinthe House talking, looking back across 18 years to the time when he, Perry Como, Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin were promising care crooners.

"Who took you out of La Martinique to Hollywood?" I asked.

"Must have been Zanuck," Dick said. "I made some kind of a test sitting on a stool."

He got big on radio. "The fourth year of the Toledo Autolite show, I was getting $10,000 a week. Whatever happened to those days?" Dick asked.

"I had a personal manager getting 30 per cent, an agent getting 10 per cent and a business manager getting 5 per cent. I figured I was paying those people, so I'd do what they said..."

Dick has no manager at all now, and figures that his new career might show they're not necessary. He trusts he's going back to Las Vegas and Hollywood from now on.

"Not that I'd want to live in Hollywood or Beverly Hills again," he said. "All my close friends are dead. Ty Power, Bogart, John Hodiak, Flynn..."

"I have no yen for a big Beverly Hills house. If I'm going to build a big house I'd rather go south, to Florida or the Virgin Islands."

Dick and Fran can hardly wait for the Roundtable opening. Of course, Dick'll have a lot of old New York friends in his corner, and also in his corner will be the U.S. government.

"I think they're kind of happy I went bankrupt. You can't wash out taxes," Dick explained. "They kind of feel that now I can pay them."

Roberto Rossellini tells interviewers that Sonali Das Gupta has given him "the most wonderful thing a woman can offer a man—peace."

David Merrick, who'll produce "Irma La Douce" on Broadway, is trying to get the publicity photos from the cameraman who worked with the Paris company—Antony Armstrong-Jones.

EARL'S PEARLS: The average man now lives 32 years longer than he did in 1800. He has to—to get his bills paid.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A missile scientist sighed, "Just think, I spent eight years at technical colleges, and all I do is stand here and count backwards."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A telephone's an instrument you can't use because your wife's making a call or your daughter's expecting one.

ZsaZsa Gabor received a note at Danny's Hideaway. Addressed merely, "Dear Zsa," and she said in mock anger: "How dare you call me by my first Zsa!" That's earl, brother.

Former Reeve 'Cuts Ties'

SAANICHTON — Former Central Saanich reeve Sydney Pickles has sold his large farm on Mount Newton Cross Road in Central Saanich.

He bought the property, the original Marcotte farm, prior to the Second World War, and raised crops and sheep.

Buyer is A. H. Manzer of Sooke who is acting on behalf of a company.

The farm property qualified Mr. Pickles as a candidate for office in the community, and he made the most of the opportunity. He represented Ward Six on Saanich council while fighting for secession of the ward from the parent municipality, and became first reeve of the new corporation in 1951.

While reeve he served a term as a Saanich school

SWARTZ BAY PROJECT DELAYS HIGHWAY JOB

NORTH COWICHAN — Paving of the Somenos-Chemainus highway, also known as the Old Island highway, will begin August 19 because delay in completion of the Swartz Bay highway is holding back a General Construction Company crew, North Cowichan municipal council heard this week.

Christmas Tree 'Plan Bars Small Dealers

NORTH COWICHAN — Small operators who have been obtaining permits to harvest Christmas trees on municipal land will be rejected in the future if negotiations with a large company for a long-term lease arrangement are carried through by North Cowichan municipality.

Council this week granted municipal forester F. G. Rainsford permission to negotiate with G. R. Kirk Company for a five-year lease of about 200 acres of municipal "poor site land." The lease would be granted on a renewal basis.

RCMP checked McGee's car, which was parked outside the Tzouhalem Hotel Thursday, and found a .22 calibre rifle and ammunition.

McGee was fined a further $10 and no costs after pleading guilty to a charge of leaving the vehicle unattended with the keys in the ignition.

DUNCAN — Work has started on a 40-acre campsite on Trans-Canada Highway south of Cowichan River, to be operated by owner James Patterson. It will have 1,000 feet of frontage on Cowichan River and a 100-foot swimming area. The park will be opened next year.

NORTH COWICHAN — A promise to consider granting longer sprinkling hours in the municipality was given a delegation this week by the municipal council.

Mrs. W. C. Gilmore, North Chemainus, acted as spokesman for the group.

"If we had a fire in North Chemainus we wouldn't have a chance of saving a thing," she said after telling council the lack of water pressure means lack of fire protection.

The delegation informed council pensioners and persons with only seasonal employment depend on their gardens to help them through the winter months.

NORTH COWICHAN — Municipal council has approved installation by the Board of Transport Commissioners of two flashing light signals, one at James Street at the north boundary of Duncan, and another further north at Sherman Road, for protection of motorists at railway crossings.

North Cowichan will pay 12.5 per cent, the E & N Railway 7.5 per cent, and the Board of Transport will pay 80 per cent of the installation cost.

Cost of the signal at James Street will be $9,500 and cost of the Sherman Road signal will be $7,800. Annual maintenance cost of $367 will be divided equally between the E & N Railway and North Cowichan municipality.

Saanich Children Preparing Show Of Park Work

Children at 78 Saanich municipal parks are now putting the finishing touches to exhibits that will be on display on the lower floor of Standard Furniture Ltd., Yates, between Monday and Thursday.

Organizer Peter Clarke, chief playground supervisor for Saanich, and his team will start work Monday morning in preparation for the opening of the exhibition to the public at noon.

The show will be the climax of five weeks instruction for the youngsters in Saanich parks.

About 2,000 children have been drawing and painting, cutting and shaping, knitting, and plaiting under the supervision of A. E. Richman, parks superintendent for Saanich, and his staff.

Council Revising Firearms Bylaw

NORTH COWICHAN — The firearms bylaw which caused some controversy last year is being revised by North Cowichan municipal council.

Reeve D. C. Morton said the permit system will be "done away with." In its present form the bylaw regulates hunting and shooting by banning shooting in the fire protection areas. The new revised law will attempt to define the built-up areas by house number only.

Under the law irresponsible hunters still will be liable if they break rules, and he onus will not be on individual property owners to take action. A penalty of $100 has been set for offenders.

UN Postpones Intervention In Katanga

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (Reuters)—United Nations intervention in the Katanga has been postponed pending a meeting of the Security Council, it was officially announced here tonight.

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (UPI)—Premier Moise Tshombe ordered all airfields in Katanga closed at midnight (6 pm, PDT) tonight to prevent United Nations troops from being flown into the province.

The move came as UN under-secretary Dr. Ralph J. Bunche suddenly broke off talks with Tshombe here and returned by plane to Leopoldville for urgent new discussions on the increasingly explosive Katanga crisis with UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjöld.

The question still unanswered as the minutes ticked away toward zero hour on Saturday was whether Hammarskjöld would go ahead with his plans to send UN troops into this province which has declared its independence from the rest of the new Republic of Congo.

NO SIGN OF PEACE
If Hammarskjöld decides to press ahead, the UN forces probably will have to shoot their way in, since Tshombe and his government showed no sign of letting them in peaceably.

Heavily-armed military police of the Congolese army, loyal to Tshombe, sped out to Elisabethville airport in trucks to take up positions along the runways. The soldiers lined up their trucks beside the landing strips, ready to drive them into position to block any planes attempting to land. The trucks were loaded with oil barrels which were to be placed on the runways as additional barriers.

The only possible airport in Katanga which the UN could use is the one at the Belgian military base at Kamina. But it was unlikely the UN would ask the Belgians for permission to use it, and less likely that the Belgians would want to get mixed up in such a UN move.

BUNCHE ACTS FAST
Just before he left, he averted a potentially serious incident at the Elisabethville airport. Leaders of this "independent" province of the Congo ordered a detachment of empty trucks out to the runways to block the landing of a UN plane from Leopoldville.

Tshombe and those who back him feared the approaching plane was carrying an advance detachment of UN troops. Bunche dashed to the control tower, grabbed a microphone and ascertained that the plane carried only civilian technicians. When he explained this to airport authorities, they allowed the plane to land.

But the civilians were not allowed to leave the plane. They stayed aboard and returned to Leopoldville with Bunche.

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—The Belgian government appeared tonight to be hardening its support of a Katanga-republic independent of the Congo and in its opposition to United Nations intervention in the break-away Congo province.

Foreign Minister Pierre Wigny declared after a cabinet meeting that the government considered the sending of UN-forces into Katanga would be "an interference in the internal affairs of another country."

Would Follow U.S. Elections

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev told Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain today he would like to discuss disarmament, a nuclear test ban and the future of Germany—"the basic problems of our times"—at a summit meeting.

But, he added, such a meeting "can hardly be expected" before the U.S. elections in November. Then he went on, Tass reported:

"If the Soviet government does not meet with understanding later, and if obstacles to agreement on these questions will be put up, we shall conclude a peace treaty with the East German Democratic Republic."

Khrushchev accused Macmillan of taking a hostile stand toward Russia by backing what he termed the aggressive policies of the United States.

DANGEROUS POLICY
Khrushchev was answering a personal letter from Macmillan July 19, in which the British leader warned that Soviet foreign policy appeared to have taken a dangerous new turn.

Khrushchev said Britain, by "covering up" for the United States, has assumed a position that is "hostile to us, directed against us."

Macmillan's letter had criticized the Russians for shooting down the American RB-47 July 1—making clear he accepted the U.S. version that the plane was over international waters when attacked.

Khrushchev said in his letter the flight of the RB-47 was carried out "not only from your territory but was agreed to by the British government."

U.S. comment on the Khrushchev proposal came today from two Democrats.

John F. Kennedy, presidential candidate, said: "The President of the United States conducts foreign policy and the comment should come from him." But he added: "Our experience in May did not give us much encouragement."

Former Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson said:

"Let us hear what Khrushchev wants to discuss before we close any avenues to a safer world through peace by negotiation."

No comment was available from U.S. Republican or government sources.

2 Teen-Agers Slain; Police Question Man

BRUCE MINES, Ont. (CP)—Two teen-agers were fatally shot Thursday night and a provincial police manhunt today held a 25-year-old former mental patient wanted for questioning in the slayings.

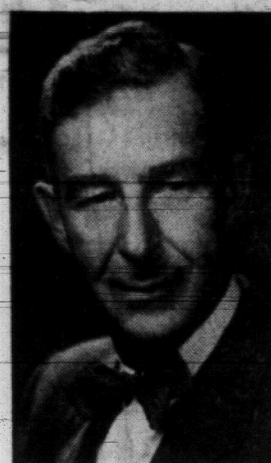

Jacqueline Dumont, 16, and William Brechin, Jr., 19, were found 10 miles apart on district roads near this community, 40 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie.

The captured man, a hired laborer on a local farm, was stopped at a road-block north of Desbarates, about 25 miles east of the Soo, with a rifle under his arm. No charges have yet been laid.

Neighbors said Brechin and Miss Dumont had been going together during the last year. Miss Dumont lived opposite the man captured by police and they were also friendly.

MOSCOW (AP)—The newspaper Trud today reported the expulsion of a French medical scientist and an American student from Russia for espionage.

We'll Have Hockey, Agreement Reached

JAMES PIGGOTT
... to operate team

Victoria is assured of professional hockey for at least another season.

Jim Piggott, owner of Victoria Cougars, and city officials today reached an agreement on operating the club for the 1960-61 Western Hockey League season thus ending a long period of uncertainty about the club's future.

It took only a short time to iron out differences still remaining in negotiations between Piggott and the Memorial Arena Commission during a noon meeting at the arena.

Piggott, who arrived from Saskatoon this morning and planned to leave this afternoon, said he was pleased with the success of negotiations and repeated his promise to furnish Victoria with nothing worse than a third-class team.

Commission members also stated the agreement had been concluded "to the satisfaction of everyone concerned," although there were still a few legal details to be worked out.

Attending the meeting with Mr. Piggott were: Mayor Percy Scurrey, city manager Cecil Wyatt, Forrest L. Shaw, commission members George I. Warren, Frank Mulliner, Courtenay Haddock, William Osborne and city engineer James Garnett.

In the past few days, the agreement which Piggott wished to obtain with the arena commission has become considerably clearer and it would not, as has been suggested, put the city "in the hockey business."

When the commission indicated last Friday that it would reject his proposal, the Saskatoon contractor, who purchased the founding Victoria franchise and lost about $5,000 in operating the club last season, stated that he was prepared to drop plans to operate the Cougars for another year unless his terms were met.

He said his proposal was that he would provide the players at his expense and the commission would provide the arena, administration and players' salaries "up to the point where I broke even."

Asked by the commission to modify the proposal, Piggott said: "I have no plans for modification."

TOKYO (Reuters)—An estimated 4,000 "peace marchers" converged on Tokyo today completing a demonstration that has been going on for the last three months.

70,000 DIED IN HIROSHIMA BLAST 15th Anniversary Of Atom Bomb Drop

By C. YATES McDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fifteen years ago tonight an explosion destroyed a city, signalled the end of a global war and spawned a lethal fear that still clouds the future of mankind.

In the new Japanese city of Hiroshima people of all faiths will pause for a minute of silent prayer at 5:15 p.m. PDT tonight—Saturday morning, Aug. 6, Japanese time—in memory of some 70,000 who were killed outright and many others who were injured in the explosion of the first atomic bomb.

Elsewhere in the world the anniversary may pass virtually unnoticed. But it will be remembered by the 10 surviving American servicemen on board the B-29 "Enola Gay."

They delivered the payoff of a Second World War program that cost the United States $2,000,000,000. Since then, many times that amount has been spent in making vastly more lethal nuclear weapons or in seeking to devise means to counteract them.

Only three men aboard the bomber that ushered in the military atomic age are still on active duty. The pilot, now Brig.-Gen. Paul W. Tibbets Jr., commands the Strategic Air

'MY FACE DIDN'T FIT' Ex-Royal Butler Wouldn't Sign Oath

LONDON (Reuters)—The former butler of newlywed Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones was quoted today as saying he was asked to sign a statement under the Official Secrets Act before he left the couple's employ.

Thomas Cronin said in an interview with the Daily Express he decided to leave his job at Kensington Palace this week because: "My face didn't fit, that's all there is to it."

The silver-haired Cronin said on the day he left he was asked to sign a declaration under the Official Secrets Act.

"They were concerned in case I should talk about what I heard and saw during my 25 years."

"I flatly refused. I will never talk about those days. I don't need the Official Secrets Act to remind me of my professional bond."

Cronin added: "There were differences of opinion and a number of incidents."

"I had to hand over certain keys from time to time and then I was asked for the petty cash box."

"Rooms downstairs were examined. And on occasions when I was wanted, fingers were snapped."

"These are all things a butler of my standing is not used to and I couldn't work like that."

CUBA GROWLING SAYS FORMER AIDE

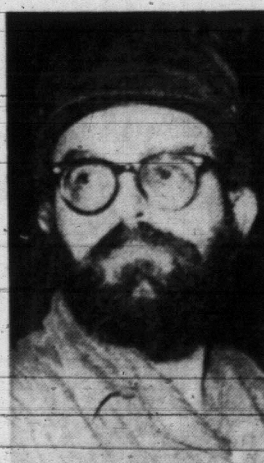

'Give Castro Six Months'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Raul Chibas, one of Premier Fidel Castro's top aides in the Cuban revolution who fled to political exile in the United States this week, says a resistance movement in Cuba is growing, but it is not yet strong enough to be feared by Castro.

He predicted, however, that Castro "won't last six months."

Chibas, Castro's treasurer during the revolution and who helped condemn foes of the revolution in the 1959 "showcase" trials, said he fell out with Castro over the premier's "obvious move toward communism."

He said in a Herald interview Thursday: "Two months ago I was asked to resign as president of the Western Railroad Company because I had expressed dissatisfaction with the government to persons I believed were my friends."

... resistance growing

—He refused to resign and from that time on, Chibas said, he was under surveillance by Castro secret police.

The 44-year-old army major left Cuba Tuesday with his young wife in a 17-foot motorboat and spent 11 hours sailing to Key West.

Chibas said he does not believe that Castro is taking orders from Moscow, but said Castro is aping "the Soviet government's ideas" and giving it a free hand in Cuba.

Chibas said he could throw no light on Castro's present ill condition, saying he hasn't seen him for 1½ months. But if anything should happen to Fidel, he said, the Cuban people would not follow Raul Castro "for a minute."

ARSON CHARGED IN FOREST FIRES

Forest fires are being deliberately set in B.C.

A high forests department spokesman said today four persons have been prosecuted this year. Two were at Nelson; two at Ashcroft.

The fire setting in many instances has taken place because men in the areas involved were unemployed.

At Kamloops "at least 100" men were waiting around the ranger station for fire-fighting work.

So organized is the fire-fighting campaign that the forestry department and RCMP have put undercover men into the central B.C. area.

This has eliminated at least one fire.

The department official said one of the department's officers "drank beer" in a central B.C. tavern, with several other persons, who confided to him they were going to start a fire.

Accompanied by an RCMP officer in mufti he went to nearby forest land, and when a torch was applied, arrests followed.

MONTE ROBERTS

I seem to go on at great lengths about the parking situation in this fair city, especially the parking meter situation, and the violation of same.

This is because I am intrigued by many facets of the situation, and there appear to be new ones developing at rapid intervals.

The latest development developed at the corner of Pandora and Douglas, on the City Hall side of the street.

There are a series of parking spaces, all neatly metered, extending from Broad to Douglas.

The very end space at Douglas has recently acquired a sign.

The sign reads "for small car only."

Now, the reason is obvious, because some of the modern monsters, when parked in this end space, had their tail fins dragging halfway across the cross walk.

But what intrigues me is this:

How small is a small car?

And what is the penalty if not-quite-small-enough car uses this space?

To explain—if explanation is needed—I drive what I consider to be a small car.

But it is bigger than a really small car, and almost twice as big as a really, REALLY small car.

Thus, what would my legal position be if I were to use this small car parking space, and a prejudiced commissioner who owned a smaller car came along and gave me a ticket for not having a small enough car?

There is another point.

Supposing the space were occupied by a man who owns a Chevrolet.

And he was accused of parking a big car where the rules call for a small car, only.

And supposing that the man entered a defence to the effect that the company that makes his car makes at least three cars BIGGER than his car, and therefore, his car, appearances to the contrary, is a small car?

I don't know about you, but I am going to keep my eye on the corner of Pandora and Douglas.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The intermediate group of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Monterey Restaurant parking lot for a field trip to Saanichton Spit.

Ernest Charles Wyatt, Vancouver Street, was bonded for $250 for a year's good behavior when he pleaded guilty in Saanichton police court Thursday to assault causing bodily harm to his wife, Pearl Wyatt.

Court was told the accused struck the complainant with the flat of his hand, shattering an ear drum.

Victoria Bluebird Majorettes will be providing car wash facilities at the Cross Road Service Station, Cedar Hill Cross Road at Shelbourne, between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday.

The cost will be $1 a car and the proceeds will be used to purchase new equipment.

During the late afternoon the majorettes will give a display at Shelbourne Shopping Plaza.

An unidentified naval officer, early Thursday, made a crash landing through a gate.

He apparently whistled through the locked gate of the Tri-Service College at Royal Roads.

The gate is closed daily between 7 p.m. and 8 a.m. It is located between the Belmont housing development and the college.

Half of the seven-foot mesh gate was found lying on the ground Thursday morning.

Incident is being investigated by naval authorities.

United Commercial Travelers' Association and the Greater Victoria Retarded Children's Association will be holding a fund-raising tag day in downtown Victoria Saturday.

Harry C. Lumb, no fixed address, pleaded guilty in city police court today to stealing a "U-drive" car from Dixon Brothers Ltd.

He was remanded until next Friday for sentence.

According to police, Lumb rented the car for a few days and took it to Vancouver where he attempted to sell the vehicle. The car was valued at $2,000.

The Oak Bay Playground swimming classes at the Crystal pool during the past five weeks have been so successful it has been decided to extend them a further three weeks.

So far 140 children have learned to swim and will be presented with certificates Saturday by Mrs. H. A. Beckwith. The presentations will take place between 9:30 and 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Beckwith is one of the playground organizers—Mrs. D. T. Hawkes is the other.

Frank Kennedy has been supervising the classes, the smallest of which numbered 125 youngsters, and the largest, 180.

Pleading guilty to a charge of stealing a chain saw belonging to Alf Becker, N. R. Nelson, no fixed address, was remanded in city police court today until next Friday for sentence.

Police told the court that Nelson, a former foreman for B.C. Forest Products Ltd., was out of work. He attempted to pawn the chain saw in Vancouver, they said.

A $5,000 project of converting the city welfare building's basement into a family and juvenile court headquarters will be completed next week, a City Hall spokesman said today.

The renovations have established a courtroom, judge's quarters, prosecutor's office, custody room, waiting room and vaults in the basement.

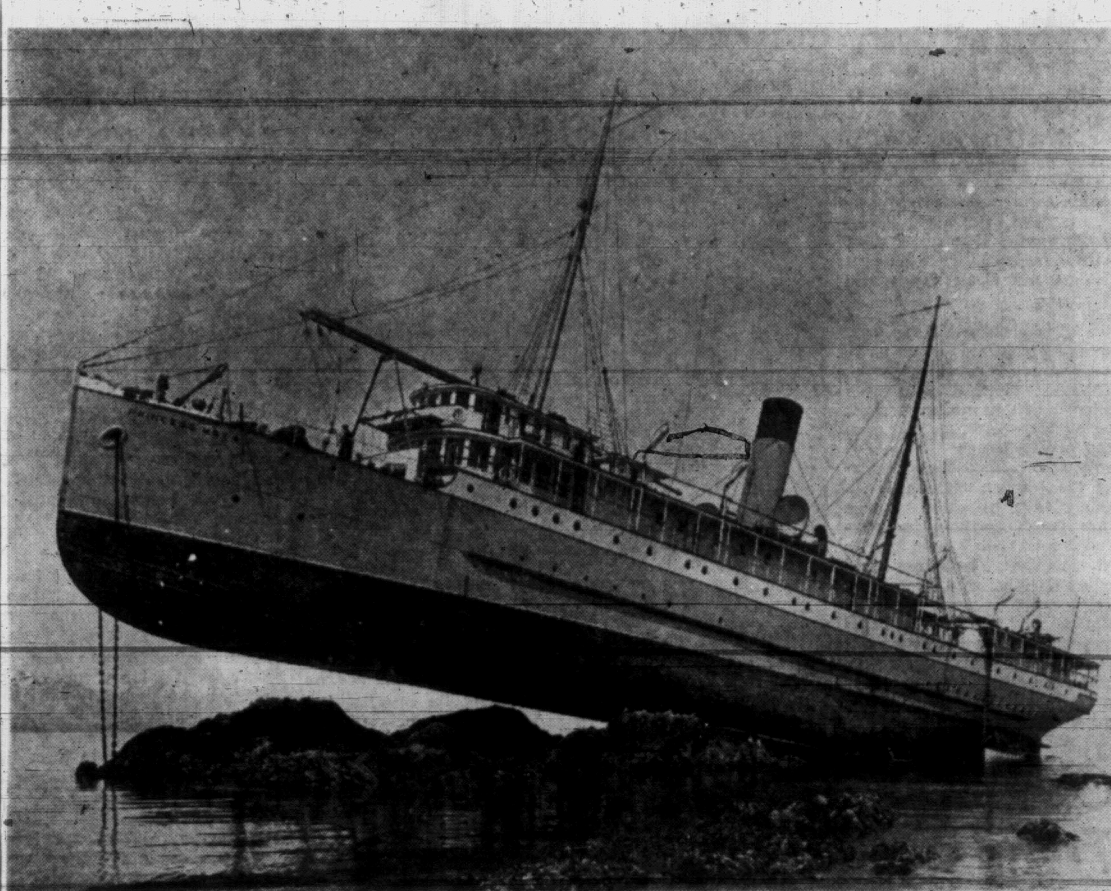

PEANUTS

SOMETIMES I GET LONESOME FOR HOME...

BUT I SUPPOSE THIS IS BOUND TO HAPPEN WHEN YOU ARE AWAY FROM HOME...

HOW LONG HAVE YOU BEEN AWAY FROM HOME, CHARLIE BROWN?

FIFTEEN MINUTES!

Rocky perch was "home" for Princess May for eight months pending insurance settlement.

NO LIVES LOST

Memories of 1910 Wreck Still Clear to Teacher

Fifty years ago today, at two o'clock in the morning, the sleek CPR coastwise steamer Princess May, southward bound from Ketchikan, ground to a shuddering halt on Sentinel Island, a barnacle-encrusted reef in Hecate Strait.

One of the passengers aboard was retired Victoria school teacher Miss Sophie Hiscocks, and her recollection of the accident is as vivid today as it was a half century ago.

"It was a calm, clear night," she said. "The passengers there weren't very many—were awakened and put into the lifeboats."

"There was no panic. No body was killed or even injured."

"It was a good thing it was so calm. The lifeboats took us to the lighthouse at Porcher Island."

"We waited there until six o'clock that evening, when a tug arrived and took us to Juneau."

PERCHED ON ROCK

"At Juneau, the good old Princess Mary—the one that's now a restaurant—picked us up and brought us home to Victoria."

Second Ace Worth $50 At Gyro Golf

Latest winner of the $50 hole-in-one prize at the Gyro carnival, Royal Athletic Park, is Bernie Rogers, 5187 Cordova Bay Road.

His success on Thursday brings the number of visiting sharpshooters to two—Dr. Robert G. Whitehead, a Gyro member, opened the scoring with a hole-in-one Wednesday.

Thursday night saw an innovation in the form of an auction. Under the hammer of Frank Kilshaw a number of household items donated by Gyro members and an auto raised $350.

CARS ON BLOCK

A brand new scooter worth $250 and two more cars are included in the line-up for Saturday's auction.

The carnival continues to night and Saturday. The last day will see children's sports in the afternoons and more attractions in the evening.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today:

John Seminuk, R.C.N., $20 for operating a car without adequate insurance.

Richard P. Lawsen, 2343 Trent, $15 for inadequate muffler.

Robert William Waterston, R.C.N.; $15 for speeding over 30.

Irene Betty Bibby, 3016 Millgrove, $10 for failing to obey traffic sign.

David W. MacDonald, 4794 Interurban, $20, over 20 in a 20-mile-an-hour zone.

Miss Hiscocks recalls that the May stayed perched on her "private rock" for eight months as tides rose and fell, and the owners and underwriters worked out an agreement.

"They finally pulled her off."

HIGH APARTMENT TREND FORECAST

Almost half of the 2,500 apartment buildings expected to be erected in Victoria during the next two decades probably will be in a few luxury skyscrapers in the James Bay area.

"It will mean the investment of $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 in the next few years," said assistant engineer Roderick Clack today.

The first of the proposed "high rise" structures—which will go up as high as 12 storeys—is under study by the building and technical planning department.

This is an eight-storey, 60-suite development planned by Westcott Apartments Ltd. of Vancouver on property at 238 Douglas. The luxury suites would range from one-bedroom units to two-bedroom, two-bathroom suites of more than 1,000 square feet.

TORONTO PURCHASE

Property for another eight-storey, 100-suite apartment has been purchased on Kingston Street by realtor Gordon Chapman of Toronto.

City council has given three readings to a bylaw which would permit the high rise apartments on a limited scale, starting with the Westcott development.

It represents a dramatic shift in town planning here, breaking away from the present regulations which have held apartment building size down to three storeys.

A public hearing will be held at the next council meeting, Aug. 18, before final reading of the bylaw is considered.

PROTEST LODGED

One protest against the bylaw has been lodged—but it objects to rezoning a single site for the new type of apartment instead of presentation of and overall plan marking out which sites eventually will be included in the new zoning provisions.

(The advisory planning commission has indicated that the high rise buildings should be limited to a few carefully selected sites, overlooking Beacon Hill Park and the Dallas waterfront, which would total about 30 acres.)

The objection by Aubrey Kent, 228 Douglas, a member of the zoning board of appeal, was contained in a letter sent to City Hall claiming the bylaw was creating "spot zoning" because it dealt with only one property and not an area.

DISADVANTAGE

He said piecemeal zoning of tall apartment sites would leave present property owners at a disadvantage because they would not know what potential developments could go up on their holdings.

The planning commission is surveying a number of sites that should be included in an overall rezoning plan later.

It argues that the time has come for Victoria to pick a few sites for skyscraper development because the city is rapidly running out of unused lots so dwelling structures will have to go "up" if more people are to live in the city.

Peking Opera Festival Show For Victoria

The glamorous and unique Peking Opera—which is no opera in the western sense but more in the nature of a superlative variety show—will be the attraction for Victoria's official night at Vancouver International Festival.

North American premiere for this fabulous group will take place Aug. 10 at the Queen Elizabeth Theatre.

Third of their five performances. Friday, Aug. 12, has been chosen as Victoria night, when an official group, led by Mayor Percy Scourah, will represent the capital city.

It is expected many Victorians will take this opportunity of a package trip that includes bus and boat transportation to Vancouver, dinner, a good seat at the theatre and return by plane.

Arrangements are being made through the Featherstone Travel Agency which points out that the deadline for reservations is 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, although tickets may be picked up later.

Citizens Rallying For Chest

$350,000 Drive To Open Oct. 3

Official opening of Victoria's Community Chest campaign is scheduled this year for Oct. 3 and plans are already well advanced.

This year's goal of $350,000 is up 19 per cent on last year's figure of $295,000.

Bernard Van Aggelen, 1960 community chest campaign chief volunteer, today outlined this year's fund raising strategy.

"We are giving top priority to organization so that every prospective donor has an opportunity to give," he said.

"All key areas are covered, except one, and my fellow members of the campaign committee are extremely pleased with the response we are enjoying in our recruiting."

500 RECRUITED

"More than 500 key personnel have been enrolled to date and these are now in the process of recruiting their canvassers."

Mr. Van Aggelen said emphasis in canvassing would be placed on the fair share formula, which had been arrived at after careful studies by committees of the chest over the past two years.

Donations by firms, they suggested, should be based on the fair share corporate yardstick, while the suggested contribution for an individual was a day's pay.

To ensure complete understanding of the chest's aims, it was going to be "the best publicized campaign ever to hit Victoria," Mr. Van Aggelen said.

MISS RED FEATHER

The Miss Red Feather contest, which proved so popular last year, is definitely going to be repeated, he said. Agencies will be asked to name a volunteer or client to compete. The contest is open to any female between eight months and 80.

Once the campaign gets under way some 3,700 volunteers will be at work raising money for the 22 member agencies that make up the chest.

The canvassing area will stretch from Sooke to Sidney taking in 43,000 homes with a total population of 137,000.

Considerable weight will be given to the campaign by the "joining-up" of Victoria Jaycees.

Edward Bird, director of the Jaycee Social Welfare Committee, told the chest this week junior chamber members are prepared to canvass half the number in the small business section.

Cabinet Names 18 Officials For Election

A former local Social Credit official has been appointed returning officer for the Victoria constituency in the provincial election.

One of 18 returning officers named today by cabinet order is Archie M. Browne, formerly president of the Victoria Social Credit Association in 1953 and later its secretary-treasurer. Now retired, Mr. Browne was in the roofing business.

Other local appointees are D. G. Woods, in Esquimalt, and Mrs. Thelma Cook in Saanich.

RE-APPOINTED

Mrs. Cook served in the 1956 election, but had to be re-appointed as she re-married. Her name formerly was Clark.

Named for the post in Nanaimo in S. W. Blyth.

Oak Bay returning officer Ken Murphy serves again.

Four Island Men Pass First Year Of Realtor Study

Four Vancouver Island students have been successful in the first year of a three-year diploma course in Real Estate and Appraisal at University of British Columbia.

They are J. L. Whittemore, Duncan, and N. G. Curbishley, W. P. Wright, and P. G. Jackson of Victoria.

The course was initiated last fall by Real Estate Council of British Columbia and the Faculty of Commerce and Business Administration at the University.

Successful students will be eligible to start second year course Sept. 14. Another first year class will start on the same day.

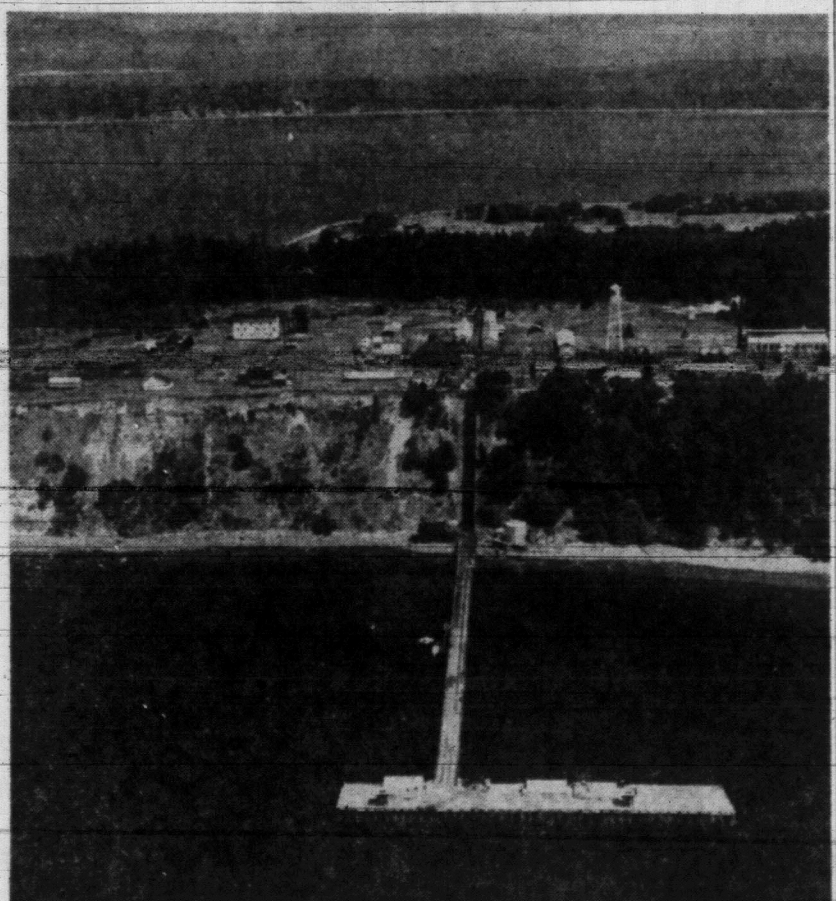

ASK THE TIMES

Q. For what percentage of the ordinary work year is a school classroom in use in B.C.?—T.H.

A. With minimum classroom use taking up 5 1/2 hours a day five days weekly, and taking away holidays, classroom use over a year amounts to about 1,100 hours. With an average work week of 40 hours for wage earners, and taking out two weeks holidays, the average worker is on the job close to 2,000 hours a year. So the difference runs to about 50 per cent on this basis. But in addition it also must be remembered that many schoolrooms are used for night school classes, PTA meetings, and summer school utilization.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should be well worded, of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

"PORRIDGE" is being used for blasting nowadays but it's not the kind mother serves at breakfast. New "porridge" is Hydromex and it's the latest type of blasting agent being made at Canadian Industries Ltd. plant at James Island. Aerial picture by Bill Halkett shows James Island plant where 190 employees made Hydromex and other commercial explosives and blasting supplies. Hydromex is being used at Empire Development mine at Port McNeill, is favored by blasters for its porridge-like consistency and because it is considered one of safest explosives to handle.

AFTER U.S. ELECTION

New Summit
Proposed by K

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev told Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain today he would like to discuss disarmament, a nuclear test ban and the future of Germany. "the basic problems of our times"—at a summit meeting.

But, he added, such a meeting "can hardly be expected" before the U.S. elections in November. Then he went on, Tass reported:

"If the Soviet government does not meet with understanding later, and if obstacles to agreement on these questions will be put up, we shall conclude a peace treaty with the East German Democratic Republic."

Khrushchev accused Macmillan of taking a hostile stand toward Russia by backing what he termed the aggressive policies of the United States.

DANGEROUS POLICY

Khrushchev was answering a personal letter from Macmillan July 19, in which the British leader warned that Soviet foreign policy appeared to have taken a dangerous new turn.

Khrushchev said Britain, by "covering up" for the United States, has assumed a position that is "hostile to us, directed against us."

Macmillan's letter had criticized the Russians for shooting down the American RB-47 July 1, making clear he accepted the U.S. version that the plane was over international waters when attacked.

Khrushchev said in his letter the flight of the RB-47 was carried out "not only from your territory but was agreed to by the British government."

U.S. comment on the Khrushchev proposal came today from two Democrats.

John F. Kennedy, presidential candidate, said: "The President of the United States conducts foreign policy and the comment should come from him." But he added: "Our experience in May did not give us much encouragement."

Former Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson said: "Let us hear what Khrushchev wants to discuss before we close any avenues to a safer world through peace by negotiation."

No comment was available from U.S. Republican or government sources.

'TAX-FREE' IDEA STOLEN?

Liberal School
Plan Questioned

By FRANK RUTER

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault's "tax-free" school financing plan sparked some skepticism today as to how he could raise the money now paid by municipal taxpayers.

Mr. Perrault was also accused of "lifting" a plank from the CCF program.

School costs to municipal taxpayers in 1958-59, last reported figures by the education department, were $45,127,873.

The province kicked in $43,216,662 towards the total bill of $91,279,662.

In 1959-60 and 1960-61, the government boasts in its new financial review, education aid will total 50 per cent of costs.

Mr. Perrault would have to pick up the $45,000,000 tab somehow if he were to implement his plan to free municipal property owners from school taxes.

"As things stand," said CCF leader Robert Strachan, "he would have to chop something off to pay for it."

BRUCE MINES, Ont. (CP)—Two teen-agers were fatally shot Thursday night and a provincial police manhunt today held a 25-year-old former mental patient wanted for questioning in the slayings.

Jacqueline Dumont, 16, and William Brechin, Jr., 19, were found 10 miles apart on district roads near this community, 40 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie.

The captured man, a hired laborer on a local farm, was stopped at a road block north of Desbarres, about 25 miles east of the Soo, with a rifle under his arm. No charges have yet been laid.

Neighbors said Brechin and Miss Dumont had been going together during the last year. Miss Dumont lived opposite the man captured by police and they were also friendly.

SECURITY COUNCIL TO MEET

UN Postpones Intervention
In Katanga

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (Reuters)—United Nations intervention in the Katanga has been postponed pending a meeting of the Security Council. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld called the meeting for Sunday night.

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (UPI)—Premier Moïse Tshombe ordered all airfields in Katanga closed at midnight (6 p.m., PDT) tonight to prevent United Nations troops from being flown into the province.

The move came as UN under-secretary Dr. Ralph J. Bunche suddenly broke off talks with Tshombe here and returned by plane to Leopoldville for urgent new discussions on the increasingly explosive Katanga crisis with UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjöld.

The question still unanswered as the minutes ticked away toward zero hour on Saturday was whether Hammarskjöld would go ahead with his plans to send UN troops into this province which has declared its independence from the rest of the new Republic of Congo.

NO SIGN OF PEACE

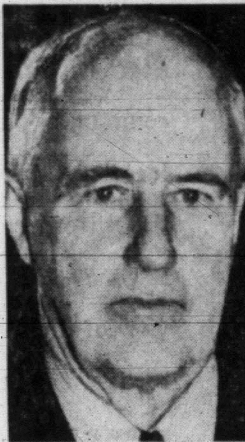

If Hammarskjöld decides to press ahead, the UN forces probably will have to shoot their way in, since Tshombe and his government showed no sign of letting them in peacefully.

Heavily-armed military police of the Congolese army, loyal to Tshombe, sped out to Elisabethville airport in trucks to take up positions along the runways. The soldiers lined up their trucks beside the landing strips, ready to drive them into position to block any planes attempting to land. The trucks were loaded with oil barrels which were to be placed on the runways as additional barriers.

The only possible airport in Katanga which the UN could use is the one at the Belgian military base at Kamina. But it was unlikely the UN would ask the Belgians for permission to use it, and less likely that the Belgians would want to get mixed up in such a UN move.

BUNCHE ACTS FAST

'CUBA GROWLING' SAYS FORMER AIDE

'Give Castro Six Months'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Raul Chibas, one of Premier Fidel Castro's top aides in the Cuban revolution who fled to political exile in the United States this week, says a resistance movement in Cuba is growing, but it is not yet strong enough to be feared by Castro.

He predicted, however, that Castro "won't last six months."

Chibas, Castro's treasurer during the revolution and who helped condemn foes of the revolution in the 1959 "show case" trials, said he fell out with Castro over the premier's

Piggott, Arena
Come to Terms

Victoria is assured of professional hockey for at least another season.

Jim Piggott, owner of Victoria Cougars, and city officials today reached an agreement on operating the club for the 1960-61 Western Hockey League season, thus ending a long period of uncertainty about the club's future.

It took only a short time to iron out differences still remaining in negotiations between Piggott and the Memorial Arena Commission during a noon meeting at the Arena.

Piggott, who arrived from Saskatoon this morning and planned to leave this afternoon, said he was pleased with the success of negotiations and repeated his promise to furnish Victoria with a contending club.

Commission members also stated the agreement had been concluded "to the satisfaction of everyone concerned," although there were still a few legal details to be worked out.

Attending the meeting with Mr. Piggott were: Mayor Percy Scurrell, city manager Cecil Wyatt, Forrest L. Shaw, commission members George I. Warren, Frank Mulliner, Courtney Haddock, William Osborne and city engineer James Garnett.

In the past few days, the agreement which Piggott wished to obtain with the arena commission has become considerably clearer and it would not, as has been suggested, put the city "in the hockey business."

When the commission indicated last Friday that it would reject his proposal, the Saskatoon contractor, who purchased the foundering Victoria franchise and lost about $5,000 in operating the club last season, stated that he was prepared to drop plans to operate the Cougars for another year unless his terms were met.

He said his proposal was that he would provide the players at his expense and the commission would provide the arena, administration and players' salaries "up to the point where I broke even. Then the first charge would be for rental of the arena."

... to operate team

Asked by the commission to modify the proposal, Piggott said: "I have no plans for modification."

This indicated that he was asking the commission to assume responsibility for losses in the event that gate receipts did not equal operational costs and it seemed certain the commission would reject the proposal.

CLEARER PICTURE

The picture became somewhat clearer after a commission meeting Monday, at which the plan was agreed to in principle. The commission asked for some changes, especially in regards to control of players and salaries, and the 15th Anniversary

Of Atom Bomb Drop

By C. YATES McDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fifteen years ago tonight an explosion destroyed a city, signalled the end of a global war and spawned a lethal fear that still clouds the future of mankind.

In the new Japanese city of Hiroshima people of all faiths will pause for a minute of silent prayer at 5:15 p.m. PDT tonight—Saturday morning, Aug. 6, Japanese time—in memory of some 70,000 who were killed outright and many others who were injured in the explosion of the first atomic bomb.

Elsewhere in the world the anniversary may pass virtually unnoticed. But it will be remembered by the 10 surviving victims of the atomic bombing of the B-29 "Enola Gay."

They delivered the payoff of a Second World War program that cost the United States $2,000,000,000. Since then, many times that amount has been spent in making vastly more lethal nuclear weapons or in seeking to devise means to counter them.

Only three men aboard the bomber that ushered in the military atomic age are still on active duty. The pilot, now Brig. Gen. Paul W. Tibbets Jr., commands the Strategic Air Command's 6th Air Division at MacDill Air Force Base in Florida.

The B-29's bombardier, Lt. Col. Thomas W. Ferebee, is squadron electronics maintenance officer at MacDill. The flight engineer, Sgt. Wyatt E. Ouzensbury, is stationed at Barksdale Air Force Base, Shreveport, La.

Navy Capt. W. S. Parsons, who directed the arming of the bomb while the B-29 was in flight between the island of Tinian and Japan, has since died. He was an admiral at the time of his death.

'MY FACE DIDN'T FIT' Ex-Royal Butler Wouldn't Sign Oath

LONDON (Reuters) — The former butler of newlyweds Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones was quoted today as saying he was asked to sign a statement under the Official Secrets Act before he left the couple's employ.

Thomas Cronin said in an interview with the Daily Express he decided to leave his job at Kensington Palace this week because: "My face didn't fit, that's all there is to it."

The silver-haired Cronin said on the day he left he was asked to sign a declaration under the Official Secrets Act.

"They were concerned in case I should talk about what I heard and saw during my 25 days.

"I flatly refused. I will never talk about those days. I don't need the Official Secrets Act to remind me of my professional bond."

Cronin added: "There were differences of opinion and a number of incidents."

"I had to hand over certain keys from time to time and then I was asked for the petty cash box.

"Rooms downstairs were examined. And on occasions when I was wanted, fingers were snapped.

"These are all things a butler of my standing is not used to and I couldn't work like that."

OBEY PARENTS

Youth No Problem To Turkish Police

By AB KENT

The Turks, once a fierce, barbaric nation, could teach Canadian parents a lot about rearing respectful, law-abiding children.

In Turkey today, for example, there is no juvenile delinquency. Police departments have no juvenile officers.

This fact was disclosed Thursday by Mehmet N. Evrin, chief of the Turkish national police communications branch, who spent a few hours in the city on a flying trip from Seattle.

The swarthy, smiling officer is studying North American police methods, chiefly concerning communications, and spent about a week in Seattle.

STUDIES ROUTINE

Thursday afternoon he was shown by Insp. Peris Atkinson the routine of Victoria police department.

Impressed with the clean-looking appearance of Victoria, Mr. Evrin said a Turkish city of similar size, about 75,000 population, would have a police force of 360, compared with a third as many here.

There is a single police force of more than 13,000 officers for the whole of Turkey instead of at national, provincial and local levels as in Canada.

But there are traffic, communication, detective and security departments, as here—except for juvenile departments.

The visitor's dark eyes lit up when he explained:

"The Turkish family is strong. The children respect their family—even the monied children.

"They do nothing without parental consent," he said, "until they are grown up and get married themselves."

The country is divided into 67 provinces, each with its own police radio station, so very remote, which are the responsibility of Mr. Evrin.

Some of the country is rugged and forbidding. Like Mexico? it was suggested.

The visitor's eyes flashed in protest.

"There are no bandits," he declared.

Congo ordered a detachment of empty trucks out to the runway to block the landing of UN plane from Leopoldville.

Tshombe and those who had him feared the approaching plane was carrying an advance detachment of U.N. troops.

Bunche dashed to the control tower, grabbed a microphone and ascertained that the plane carried only civilian technicians. When he explained this to airport authorities, they allowed the plane to land.

But the civilians were not allowed to leave the plane. They stayed aboard and returned to Leopoldville with Bunche.
